COL. LINDBERGH is to marry Miss Morrow, daughter of the American ambassador to Mexico. No marriage could interest or please the American people more. Many American girls from the Atlantic to the Pacific will now change their plans and select another hero for their dreams.

It is pleasing to know that the chain of Lindbergh's ancestry, stretching back across the ocean to powerful men in the north, is not to be broken.

Traveling east from Chicago on the Pennsylvania Limited you read in Paul Block's Pittsburgh Post-Gazette the heading, "DOLLAR OR DAUGHTER."

John Bercoveskie, who worked in the Pennsylvania mines for 20 years and was, as his wife said, "always smiling, never hurting anybody," lay dead in an adjoining room, his body kicked and battered, according to charges, by the "Coal and Iron police."

Mrs. Bercoveskie, sad but not hysterical, said: "The coal cops are always on the lookout for a man with a dollar, a pretty wife or a young daughter, some of them as young as 13 and 13."

Mr. Block's newspaper tells you that Allegheny legislators, "roused by the savage murder of John Bercoveskie, slugged and stamped to death by Coal and Iron police," will try to wipe out the private police system.

It would seem to be about time. Property must be protected, but what would property say if the miners organized a police force of their own with barracks, repeating rifles, etc.

The moral is that dollars are well organized and can do what men badly organized cannot do.

Arguing against vivisection in Albany, Assemblyman Vaughan suggests that politicians, instead of dogs, be used for experiments. He thought that would be better than "putting the murderer in the electric chair." The murderer probably would think not.

Not long ago murderers, and lesser criminals, especially those that had angered royalty, were subjected to most horrible tortures without any scientific object, beyond pleasing power, and the mob.

Even witnesses, accused of no crime, were tortured to make them tell what they knew. When the French Revolution stopped torture of witnesses, respectable judges said justice would be impossible without torture.

Dreadful cold continues in Europe, temperature 76 degrees below in Poland. Thirty-four gypsies in camp near Warsaw were found frozen to death. Many children have died of cold in their beds. In Jugo-Slavia foxes, deer and hares, numbed with cold, were easily caught by hand.

This country should be grateful for its mercies. But even here, in the Northwest, as Edmonson tells you, the temperature drops lower than it ever does at the North Pole.

After three more weeks in the White House, President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge will take the train, on the afternoon of March 4, and move to a small house in Northampton, Mass.

The President could have had four more years in the White House. He had been elected only once, and was entitled to a second election.

He chose to strain a point in the direction of the third term tradition and retires at the [illegible] of extraordinary success [illegible] service.

[illegible]is now time he will find [illegible] important work to do. He [illegible]ght possibly go to the Senate and teach senators to say a good deal in a few words.

On the formal announcement of the agreement between the Pope and the Italian government $50,000 received the Pope's blessing inside St. Peter's, and 200,000 gathered in the rain received the Papal benediction from the balcony of St. Peter's.

From the White House, it was announced on Tuesday that the President "has not made a study of the agreement (between the Pope and the Italian government), but unless the rights of American property owners are affected by the creation of a Papal state it would hardly be necessary to name a diplomatic representative to the Vatican."

That tentative decision may be reversed.

Hoover and Curtis were not officially elected until the Senate and House yesterday counted the electoral votes. Our forefathers, convinced that the people didn't know enough to elect a President, arranged to choose electors "superior men," in each state, the electors to select a President.

Police Exam Fraud to Cause Shakeup

DEATH NOTE IS KEPT SECRET

Willimantic, Feb. 14—Mrs. Gertrude Bell Jackson, widow of the detective killed last month, took on herself the blame for his death, according to officials who saw the note Mrs. Jackson left before she killed herself. The note exonerates Trenor Rice, held for the murder.

The note will not be made public "at present," Coroner Arthur G. Hill said this afternoon. He intimated in lieu of explanation of withholding the letter that its contents might not be made known until the trial of Trenor A. Rice, intimate friend of the family, on an indictment for murder of Jackson.

Rice was indicted Monday, 1ut.

Nine Hurt as Storm Hits Hub

Six men and three women were injured today in the suburbs in auto accidents ascribed to the snow storm which, while it gave Greater Boston a good taste of winter, was much heavier off the coast.

Three men were injured in a crash at Pearl st. and the Northern artery, Somerville, in which a bakery truck and two Elevated buses figured. All three were cut by glass. Half a dozen passengers in one bus escaped injury.

The bakery truck, operated by Henry Godliski of Madison ave., Cambridge, according to the police, skidded in turning into the artery and struck one of the buses that was in motion and rebounded into a stationary bus.

The injured were Godliski, Operator Donegan of the second bus and Albert Green of Garland st., Everett, a passenger. Green was taken to the Somerville Hospital.

OUSTING OF POLICEMEN FORECAST

A shakeup in the Boston police department and discharge of a number of its members were anticipated today as a result of alleged cheating in connection with the last examination of patrolmen for promotion to the grade of sergeant.

The examination held three weeks ago is under investigation by the Civil Service Commission following reports that the test questions were put on sale, prior to the quiz, by a member of the police department above the grade of patrolman.

Many policemen intending to take the examination were "tipped off" also that answers to nine of the ten questions in the test would be found in a book published by a policeman in a city near Boston, it was learned today.

As a result of this information disseminated throughout the department there was a demand for copies of the book, and several patrolmen interested were compelled to go to the city in question to get theirs.

The policeman giving the information said he secured his copy

THUGS LINE VICTIMS UP AGAINST WALL AND KILL THEM IN COLD BLOOD

Chicago, Feb. 14 (AP)—Six members of the North Side gang of George "Bugs" Moran, were lined up against a wall and summarily executed and two others were probably fatally wounded today by a band of men who invaded the North Side headquarters of the gang posing as police officers.

After forcing the men to raise their hands, the gangsters shot them down with machine guns and fled. [illegible] and laid along the sidewalk until [illegible] ambulances arrived to take them away.

FLU MENACE HAS NOT PASSED, SAYS OFFICIAL

Washington, Feb. 14—The outbreak of influenza in New England is far from over, according to Surgeon-General Cumming of the public health service.

Cumming declared that while influenza prevalence and mortality in the United States still are decreasing, there is as yet not indication that the predicted second and more severe wave of the disease will not materialize.

Reports from 41 States, the District of Columbia and New York City showed a total of 16,612 new cases during the week ending February 9, compared with 25,129 in the same territory during the preceding week.

"This is a substantial decrease," Dr. Cumming said, "but in one week it is impossible to believe the epidemic has subsided to near normal conditions."

Information he has received from Europe indicates that the outbreak there is widespread and in some places serious, he added.

"State reports in this country indicate the outbreak is subsiding in many sections," he said, "but the prevalence is still increasing in some parts. Texas, for instance, had a large increase during the past week.

"The outbreak in New England is far from over. There has been as yet no definite indication that the present wave will not be followed by a more severe outbreak during the months of cold weather still ahead."

HINT LINDY MAY VISIT ANNE ON 'SECRET FLIGHT'

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 14—Col. Charles Lindbergh for the first time today admitted his engagement to Miss Anne Morrow, daughter of Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico.

He indicated that he would have a little "private flying" to do within the next few days and asked that if he were missing for a day, or even several days, that no searching parties be sent out to look for him.

He declined to admit that the "private flying" might be a secret trip to Mexico City for a visit with his fiancee.

But he refused absolutely to give his schedule between now and the time, a week hence, when he expects to start planning air lines between New York and the Pacific coast.

After four days of hard work flying with the air mail and assisting in sky hunts for missing fellow airmen, Lindy slept late today.

Having been retieved of the task of continuing his search for Pilot Harry Rogers by news that Rogers' plane had been found, the colonel answered no calls this morning. His principal task after his late rising was a conference with officials of Pan-American Airways, Inc., to which he is technical adviser and for which he carried the first mail to Panama and return.

The time of his departure North depended on the outcome of the conference. He was unable to say whether he would be able to accept

POPE AND DUCE AGREE TO BAN MODERN FADS

Rome, Feb. 14 (INS)—Pope Pius XI and Premier Mussolini are in accord upon the subject of "purification of modern life."

When the church-state agreements are officially ratified and the new law becomes a reality, Rome and the other big Italian cities will be "purged." That is to say the recognized code will frown upon the fads of the day, which may easily lead to excesses by men and women.

Religious will be taught in the schools.

The circulation of books will be regulated so that no literature of an improper nature shall fall into the hands of young men and women.

No scantily clad chorus girls will be seen upon the stage.

The night clubs will be sternly dealt with.

Universal interest centers in the forthcoming pontifical mass in St. Peter's, which will be celebrated in honor of the ratification of the agreements.

The Vatican authorities are faced with an unprecedented demand for tickets. Special police regulations will be necessary to handle the vast

FATHER BEATS BABY WHILE DRUNK; JAILED

While the little boy, his head and face in bandages, sat in his mother's arms in East Boston court today, John C. Parsons, 22, the father, of Marion st., East Boston, admitted having gouged his son's eyes, nose and mouth after arriving home drunk last night.

In a furious battle the mother, Mrs. Evelyn Parsons, saved the eyes of John, Jr., two and a half years old, from the full attack of the father, but the baby's nose, mouth and throat were badly cut and torn, she testified.

Parsons pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness and assault and battery on his son.

"Before I impose sentence, I want to know what you have to say," said Judge Joseph H. Barnes, addressing the young father.

"All I want to say is that I was too drunk to know what I was doing," replied Parsons.

"You know now what you did," commented the judge.

"Well, it's done now—that's all," said Parsons.

Judge Barnes fined him $5 on the drunkenness charge and imposed sentence of two months in the

BRITAIN TO ASK U. S. FOR NEW ARMS CUT PARLEY

London, Feb. 14 (AP)—It was learned in well-informed quarters today that proposals for a new approach to settlement of the disarmament problem may be made by the British government to the United States in the near future.

It is believed responsible officials here are studying how the existing armament stalemate can be terminated and that after a lengthy process of consulting the dominions and obtaining their agreement the proposals may be embodied in the answer of the British government to the recent Kellogg note.

It was in this note that the U. S. government stated it was unable to accept the proposals put forward in the Anglo-French naval accord, but that at the same time it would welcome any further suggestions, thus leaving the door open for future negotiations.

sa invitation to visit Howard E. Coffin at Sapelo Island, Ga.

Miss Elizabeth Morrow, sister of the fiancee of Col. Lindbergh, was in Miami yesterday, but did not see the colonel, who at that time was aiding in the search for the amphibian plane of Richard F. Hoyt which went down among the Florida keys with Lieut. Stephen Callaway and R. I. Dunten of Miami aboard.

Rogers also was searching for this plane, subsequently rescued by Curry, when he was forced down on an island.

Lindy's Marriage May Be at Englewood, N. J.

Mexico City, Feb. 14—The marriage of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Anne Spencer Morrow will probably take place in Englewood, N. J., the girlhood home of Miss Morrow.

However, it was made plain by Mrs. Morrow, mother of Lindy's fiancee, that the time and place for the wedding have not been set, and that both are entirely up to the principals in the affair. If they desire to be married in Mexico City, it will be as they wish, said the mother.

Schoolgirl friends of Miss Anne from Englewood, from Miss Chapin's School in New York, and from Smith College at Northampton, Mass., sent her telegrams of congratulation. Many messages also poured in for Ambassador and Mrs Morrow.

A great movement was under way here today to have the wedding made a formal state function, to which the notables of the world's nations could be invited, and which would take place with all the splendor of an official ceremony in this city.

No event of the kind in years has stirred Mexican interests as has this engagement of the flying colonel to the daughter of the American ambassador here. Undoubtedly an invitation to the couple will be extended, to have the marriage performed in this city, so that Mexico can take official note of it.

It is also possible Lindy will get a chance to visit his bride-to-be earlier than his present plans permit.

The Government is anxious to have him open up the proposed airmail route from United States boundary to Mexico City. This event is planned for an early date.

Ambassador Morrow, despite his prominence, has probably never before been subjected to such an avalanche of messages, addressed to him as well as to his happy daughter.

Miss Morrow spent the busiest day of her life. Her father, whose ambassadorial duties relentlessly obliged him to spend hours at his desk, found it necessary to devote considerable time to answering telephone calls, reading fell-citations and receiving visitors.

All papers in Mexico city published news of the engagement with pictures of Col. Lindbergh. A few were fortunate enough to obtain pictures of Miss Morrow. She dislikes to have her picture taken.

The Morrow-Lindbergh romance has become the chief topic of conversation throughout Mexico. The hope is expressed everywhere that the marriage will take place in this country and speculation in this direction has gone so far as to suggest former President Calles as a possible witness to the ceremony.

It is recalled in the press that the ex-President frequently demonstrated his special fondness for America's most famous aviator. He was one of the first to congratulate Col. Lindbergh and extend his best wishes to the ambassador's daughter.

In the event that the marriage takes place here the occasion undoubtedly will take the form of a gala ceremony. High government officials and leading members of the American colony would emit no effort designed to give the marriage a place in local history.

Social Register for Lindy as Benedict

New York, Feb. 14—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, now in "Who's Who," as a great American, will get into the Social Register automatically after he is married to Miss Anne Morrow.

This will follow just as fate carried Gene Tunney, the pugilist, into the Register through his marriage to Polly Lauder.

In the last "Who's Who," Lindy received more than double the space given his future father-in-law, Ambassador Morrow.

SURE! SHE'LL WED AT HOME

ANNE'S NEIGHBORS CONVINCED

Englewood, N. J., the home town of Anne Morrow, was all agog today with speculation over the coming wedding of the ambassador's daughter to Col. Lindbergh when landscape architects and a squad of 100 assistants were observed working on the grounds of the Morrow mansion despite a layer of ice and snow. This, to the townsfolk, was convincing evidence that the wedding ceremony will be performed there. International Newsreel photo is of a drawing of the girl by Albert Stern.

The commissioner refused today to reveal the text of the letters.

If the rumors are found by the investigators to have substance, Police Commissioner Wilson, according to his own declaration, will take speedy action against any individuals or group of individuals responsible for the alleged theft and distribution of the questions.

According to one patrolman who took the examination, he received information that past questions (with the answers) in police civil service tests, were to be found in the book named.

The policeman was told that in the compilation of past questions there would be found nine of the ten questions to be put to the candidates last month.

COOLIDGE ASKS $12,370,000 FOR CRUISERS

Washington, Feb. 14 (AP)—A budget recommendation for a $12,370,000 appropriation to begin the cruiser construction program was forwarded to Congress today by President Coolidge.

The recommendation, however, was little more than half the amount proposed by the Navy Department and Secretary Wilbur was called for questioning before the Senate appropriations committee, which is considering the navy supply bill passed by the House.

Secretary Wilbur was questioned behind closed doors, and afterward he refused to discuss his conversation with the committee.

The $12,370,000 would be available during the next fiscal year, beginning next July 1, and it has been assumed that the President would propose another appropriation to permit starting work during the current year.

trial is not anticipated until the next term of the Windham County Superior Court, which comes in April.

Coroner Bill did not start his inquest as planned today, after making ready for it. Instead, with Chief Investigator Hickey, he went to the Jackson home, where Miss Juanita, sole survivor of Detective Jackson's immediate family, is in a state of collapse.

The note was expected to throw new light when read at the inquest.

MYSTERY ABOUT NOTE.

Although police investigators working on her husband's killing have been most mysterious about the note and have denied its existence Coroner Bill declared today that there was a note, found after the medical examiner had examined Mrs. Jackson's body.

The coroner intimated Mrs Jackson's note would help to clear up the killing of her husband.

Before the coroner said the note had been found Chief Investigator Edward J. Hickey, in charge of the inquiry into the husband's death, declared no note had been found in the house.

When the news of Mrs. Jackson's death reached the coroner he announced he would start an inquiry today. Juanita Jackson, the dead couple's daughter; Mrs. Ada Andrews, whose mother is the business partner of Juanita, and Policeman Pierre Marrotte, on guard duty at the Jackson home, are the only persons who were in the house when Mrs Jackson died.

Preliminary investigation has revealed that the gun Mrs. Jackson used was a weapon found here three years ago beside the body of a young Italian named Distifano and taken over by the county detective. The Distifano death is on the records as a mystery. Whether he was murdered or committed suicide has never been determined.

Mrs. Jackson somehow conceale d the rifle, the only weapon in the house, beneath the skirt of her dress and walked past others in the house to the bathroom on the second floor. No one heard the shot fired, it is said.

Mrs. Jackson was Gertrude Bell Tracey of Lebanon. She married Jackson 29 years ago. She was then 23 years old. Jackson himself was a native of Lebanon.

The couple had two children, one a boy who died some years ago, and the daughter, Juanita.

RICE NOT TOLD.

It was stated by officers that Rice, in Brooklyn jail, had not been told of Mrs. Jackson's death.

Mr. Hickey said he had had two conferences with Mrs. Jackson since Monday, when she appeared before the grand jury. That night a conference lasted until 1:30 a. m. Tuesday. The next one was at 7:30 Tuesday morning. Hickey said both conferences were at Mrs. Jackson's request, and what she told head direct bearing on evidence he had presented against Rice at the grand jury session. Mr. Hickey added: "I am not in a position to make public what Mrs. Jackson said."

Lindy Girl's 'Kiss on a Cloud' in Poem

New York, Feb. 14 (AP)—The "Lone Eagle" is to marry a poet, some of whose verse tells of the rapture of pushing one's head against the blue sky and one's lips against a cloud.

Miss Anne Spencer Morrow already has flown with Col. Lindbergh. Perhaps if they go on their honeymoon by airplane she will recall the poem "Height," winner of an alumnae prize, and published by Scribner's Magazine in April, 1928, after the Lone Eagle's first visit to Mexico City.

The poem follows:

HEIGHT

When I was young I felt so small
And frightened, for the world was tall.

And even grasses seemed to me
A forest of immensity
Until a learned that I could grow,
A glance would leave them far below.

Spanning a tree's height with my eye;
Suddenly I seemed as high,
And rising on a star I grew—
I pushed my head against the blue.
Still, like a singing lark, I find
Rapture to leave the grass behind.
And sometimes, standing in a ground,
My lips are cool against a cloud.

For her graduating class at Smith College she wrote the following:

IVY DAY SONG

Ivy we plant, remembering these,
All beauties here we prize;
Purple of hill and bare black boughs
Against December skies,
Hour of trailing willow lace
Recently we name
And white April burning out
In chestnut candle flame.
Patterned on a twilight slope
Shadows on the grass
And after dark along the walks
Laughter and steps that pass.
Not ours alone, we leave to you
Shadows and hills and trees,
We plant the ivy here today
Remembering these.

Another of her undergraduate poems follows:

REMEMBRANCE

Your hands have curved about this bowl, your lips
Have left a kiss upon this teacup's brim,
Frail and inanimate things that can outlast your beauty.
Have they no memory of you singing still
About them, echos of your melody,
If I might catch my breath and bow my head to hear?
Do their bright surfaces remember not
So faint and tremulous flutter of the wings
Of light and shade and color that were you?
No print of touch, no perfume lingering
That beauty's ghosts joined hand to hand might serve
As beauty's self, refashioning your loveliness for me?
Mute bowl!
Mute cup!
I might as vainly ask
The scent of some late jonquil to recall
Last April.

Doubt Ringling Has Marat Bathtub

New York, Feb. 14 (AP)—The New York Herald-Tribune today publishes a cable from Paris challenging the authenticity of a tub owned by John T. Ringling, the circus man, and in which Marat was murdered. Ringling has been bathing when stabbed to death by Charlotte Corday.

Mr. Ringling bought the tub for $400 at a sale here of the effects of the late Rodman Wanamaker, who had bought it 20 years ago.

Parisians contend the genuine tub is in the Grevin waxworks exhibit. Both tubs are of hammered brass, shaped like a shoe.

throng in St. Peter's sq., for tens of thousands will be unable to enter the Basilica. It will be a day of rejoicing throughout all Italy.

An unprecedented number of persons, from Italy and abroad, are seeking audiences with Pope Pius XI to express their felicitations over the accord between the church and the Italian State.

The new dignity to which the Vatican has risen in lay and ecclesiastical affairs has stirred the imagination of Catholics throughout the world. Dramatic interest attached to the forthcoming "Walled City of the Vatican," as the papal state will be known after official creation, that recalls the glory of the Popes in the Middle Ages.

POPE EXTOLS TREATY

In granting an audience to the rector of the Catholic University of the Sacred Heart, of Milan, accompanied by 30 professors and 400 students, the Pontiff extolled the Vatican-State treaty of conciliation and defended it against criticism.

"Its justification," said Pope Pius XI "is the concordat, which, I believe, has returned God to Italy and Italy to God.

"Wading through the maze of difficulties that have been encountered, I sometimes felt dizzy. Perhaps it was lucky I was a climber, accustomed to climbing the highest peaks, as well as a librarian, accustomed to documentary researches.

"We were nobly seconded from the second party. Providence made us meet without liberal prejudices."

TRIBUTE TO MUSSOLINI

The Pontiff paid tribute to Premier Mussolini, whose notable grasp of stagecraft aided the delicate negotiations which led to a solution of this long vexing Roman question.

The Pope's allusion to being a "climber" referred to the days of his priesthood, before he was elected to the Papal throne, when his favorite recreation was mountain climbing.

While the Holy See will not "compete" in international political affairs, unless intercession is invited, the Pontiff believes that the Church-State accord will be a powerful instrument in aiding world peace.

Buttressed by its new powers, and with the Pope's once again accorded "visible sovereignty" over their subjects, the dignitaries of the Church believe that the Vatican will, in the future, stand like a rock in the midst of a troubled world.

Mussolini Writes Titles for Movies at Vatican

Rome, Feb. 14 (AP)—The captions and subtitles on the motion picture news reels taken at the signing of the Italo-Vatican treaty and at the anniversary ceremony at St. Peter's were written by Premier Mussolini himself.

The reels were submitted to the Duce after they were developed and he then personally undertook the task of writing the explanatory matter. They are now being submitted to the pope.

Prof. Francesco Pacelli, advocate and a prominent figure in the "Roman question," according to an interview published in Popolo Italia today, reveals that negotiations between the Holy See and the Italian Government began August 8, 1926.

At that time, according to Pacelli, Domenico Barone, since dead, counsellor for the state, told him Mussolini wanted to know the basis on which an arrangement of the Roman question might be made.

Pacelli says he replied there were two essential points on which the Holy See would be able to cede nothing, first, that the treaty reconstitute the papal state and the sovereignty of the Pope, and second that religious marriage be conferred on it the same value as the civil rite.

Barone replied it was possible to negotiate on that basis and the first conversations ensued.

HOOVER GIVEN REPORT ON U. S. CONDITIONS

Belle Isle, Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 14 (INS)—The results of a critical analysis of post-war conditions in the United States, with particular reference to economic changes from 1922 to 1925, were laid before President-elect Hoover today by representatives of a fact-finding body he appointed while still Secretary of Commerce.

Clarence M. Woolley of the American Radiator Co., A. W. Shaw of the A. W. Shaw Co. of Chicago and Edward Eyre Hunt of the Department of Commerce, representing the "committee on recent economic changes," of which Mr. Hoover is chairman, made the report. It was informal, however. The committeemen declined to discuss it. They did indicate, though, that "the patient was healthy" and presumably needed no drastic form of treatment.

The survey made, it was explained, concerns consumption and the standard of living, the growth of new and old industries, technical changes in manufacturing, the changing structure of industry, construction, transportation, marketing, labor, management, agriculture, price movements, banking, foreign markets and loans and the national income and its distribution.

Receipt of the report was most timely, Mr. Hoover is now spending much of his time preparing his inaugural address and mapping out his program for the special session of Congress he expects to call. The data given him today fitted in nicely in both respects.

A whole year was consumed in getting together the facts of the situation. The National Bureau of Economic Research, Inc., aided by more than 100 economists, engineers and statisticians, made a survey for the committee.

The air mail came through in the snow with Capt. Richard W. Meikle at the helm on the New York-Boston run. The Chicago-New York air mail was delayed, however, and Boston letters in it could not be brought by Meikle, but were to arrive later in a plane piloted by Henry Tallman.

COPELAND ASKS DRUG SURVEY

Washington, Feb. 14 (INS)—Dope is a worse scourge to humanity than the most virulent epidemic, Senator Copeland (Dem.) of New York has declared.

Senator Copeland, former health commissioner of New York City, strongly urged adoption of the resolution calling for a joint congressional survey of the traffic in narcotic drugs.

"The people do not realize fully the danger of the drug evil," he said. "I believe the investigation will have great beneficial results."

Further support also was pledged to the resolution.

In a letter to Representative Lagsardia (Rep.) of New York, who, with Senator Wheeler (Dem.) of Montana, is sponsoring the inquiry, Maj. S. W. Brewster, warden of district prisons of New York City, declared the survey would clear up the uncertainty as to actual conditions in the narcotic trade.

BIG LEAK ON BORDER.

"I have made a study of this question for many years, first from a prison angle, where we have a difficult problem; later, into the question of uniform state laws, and I have finally studied the international problem, going to Geneva in October, 1927," Brewster wrote.

"If you have hearings on the resolution I would be very glad to appear, and I am quite certain that the commissioner of corrections would approve of my submitting statistics of the Department of Correction. I could probably give the committee considerable information on all phases of the problem."

Copeland pointed to the present difficulties in enforcing the anti-smuggling laws because of the resourcefulness of the dope rings and the ease with which drugs can be concealed.

A serious problem, he said, is the influx of dope from Mexico.

"Why, a dope smuggler, wearing a light woolen suit, can cross the border, dip his suit into water saturated with morphine, dry it and return to the United States," explained Copeland. "Once on this side unmolested, he can soak his suit again and dissolve the dope.

SMUGGLERS RESOURCEFUL.

"Thus he has a supply to sell to addicts. Dope also is brought across in automobile tires and in slits in postal cards.

"With an apparently unending supply reaching the country, it is imperative that we take steps with the rest of the world to stop the production of opium at the source. If the investigation does nothing more than arouse public opinion to the menace, a great public service will have been performed.

"Let us be sure our own house is in order. Then we can demand that Europe and Asia follow suit."

New York, Feb. 14 (INS)—Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Cleveland, 82 and 81, respectively, who will celebrate their 64th wedding anniversary February 28, said today that the reason modern marriages do not last is because people do not marry the first one they fall in love with.

The Clevelands, who are cousins of the late President Grover Cleveland, were married at Barre, Mass.

VANISHED MAN WIRES FOR CASH

Joseph E. Dwyer, missing Dorchester youth, thought to have been shanghied on a rum-running tug boat, was located today when he telegraphed from Philadelphia asking his mother, Mrs. Joseph J. Dwyer of Hancock st., Dorchester, for train fare home.

The telegram failed to state whether Dwyer, who is the 21-year-old proprietor of a Roxbury battery station, had been taken to Philadelphia and released, or whether he made his way there himself.

In the meantime police of the Milk st. station found his automobile abandoned in front of 500 Atlantic ave, apparently where he left it Monday night when he disappeared.

Dwyer left home Monday night to attend a meeting of battery men, having received a notice purporting to have been sent out from the national association that the assembly would be held in a clubhouse on Atlantic ave. He failed to return home and was reported missing.

Yesterday his mother received a message from him, scrawled on a piece of yellow paper, in which the young man said he was held prisoner on a tug which he had been told was in New York harbor.

The Dorchester police communicated with the New York authorities and eleven police launches searched New York harbor without success.

JUDGE LONG IS DENOUNCED AS A 'CAESAR'

Judge Charles L. Long of the Hampden County Probate Court was denounced as a "Caesar" by Representative Daniel J. Coakley of Chicopee in a hearing today before the legislative committee on legal affairs.

Coakley was renewing his fight of a year ago for the authorization of the appointment of an additional judge of probate and insolvency for Hampden County.

"There is no question of the judge's honesty," declared the speaker, "but he is intimidating and domineering."

FIGURES ARE CITED.

He cited figures to show that cases now before the Superior Court are so great in number that relief should be offered the county through the appointment of another probate judge. Many of these cases, he explained, would never have been brought in the Superior Court if Judge Long's attitude had been different. He held that they rightfully beloned in the Probate Court.

"Lawyers and their clients are afraid of Judge Long, and they prefer to go into the Superior Court with divorce cases."

CONSTITUENTS ANGRY.

Coakley told the committee some of his constituents had gone so far as to suggest impeachment proceedings, but he had told them to get someone else to start any such action as that.

On being asked by one of the committee as to how the judge acted after the legislative hearing of a year ago, Coakley said:

"While the Legislature was in session he acted like a different man. But after that he pulled the whip out of the socket and was driving 18 horses instead of six."

Trotzky a Captive Will Be Exiled

Constantinople, Feb. 14 (AP)—Heavy guards held Leon Trotzky, deposed Soviet war chief, prisoner at the Russian consulate today, while the city wondered at what spot he would write the next chapter of his tempestuous life history.

Angora, Constantinople, Brousa and Berlin are a few of the places which have been suggested, but there has been almost nothing which might indicate where he finally will be sent.

Among various conflicting rumors is one that Trotzky will be kept in the consulate here, pending a decision to send him to Angora or Brousa.

Asks Exemption for Niagara Sightseers

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Feb. 14 (AP)—The Niagara Falls Hotel Association today forwarded to Secretary of Labor James J. Davis a copy of a resolution which protests against the enforcement of a ruling compelling aliens, leaving this country on a brief visit to Canada, to submit to immigration examination and pay an additional head tax before they can return. The resolution asks to have the Niagara district exempt from the ruling.

The association says visitors to Niagara must visit both sides of the border to get an adequate view of the Falls and foreign visitors are subjected to hardship in being compelled to pay a second head tax.

Romantic Memories Evoked Today! Gov. Allen Loved, Lost

Memory stirred with the dawn of this—the 1929—heart shaped day, and from various prominent parties came recollection of the best moments they could recall in the matter of valentines.

Except for the newest Governor of Massachusetts, Frank G. Allen, who stirred up the ashes of a long-gone romance that died aborning. His memory was at the time, but not now, dark and shadowy.

Back of the rocky stares of every prominent personage, apparently, lurks a bit of romance—or something—and even to disappointed City Clerk John F. Doyle, the sure mortar prominent boys and girls of the town broke out in a rash of sentimentality.

The case of Mister Doyle must be taken up first, because Mister Doyle confesses heroically that never yet has he received a valentine.

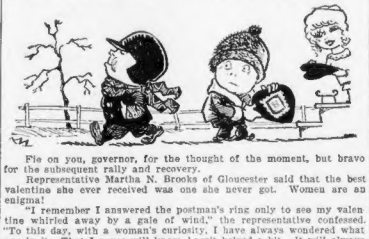
"I was a wild kid, I guess," he said today in a melancholy moment, "and I guess I never inspired the girls to sentimental messages."

Isn't Wilfred a card?

This anniversary, some years ago, was one stuffed with ashes for Governor Allen and the sun more prominent boys and girls of the town broke out in a rash of sentimentality.

"St. Valentine's Day always brings fresh to my memory not the worst or best mementoes I received, but a very real tragedy in my boyhood," said the governor, bravely.

"I was about 11 years old then. As I called at my best girl's home to give her my valentine personally, I was just in time to see another boy leave after presenting his. That was a dark day for me."



Fie on you, governor, for the thought of the moment, but bravo for the subsequent rally and recovery.

Representative Martha N. Brooks of Gloucester said that the best valentine she ever received was one she never got. Women are an enigma!

"I remember I answered the postman's ring only to see my valentine whirled away by a gale of wind," the representative confessed. "To this day, with a woman's curiosity, I have always wondered what was in it. That I never will know, hasn't helped a bit. It will always be my best valentine."

"Love affairs" and "sentimental ambitions" were the theme notes of Chief Deputy United States Marshal James J. Tighe's recollections.

"Our attempts to identify the handwriting on the valentines of our boyhood days," said the deputy, "providing enough diversion for weeks after they had been received.

"We were able then only to buy valentines at a cent apiece, and the sentiments inscribed upon them were in keeping with their low cost. Many a schoolboy in my class, as well as myself, spent sleepless nights endeavoring to discover by mental process the senders of the 'horrible' valentines which cartooned our love affairs and ridiculed our sweetheart ambitions."

Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, health commissioner of Boston, forwards the palm for his best valentine to his mother.

"The valentine I remember best was the first one I ever received," said the Irish health director. "It was from my mother and was one of those lacy affairs, with a big heart on which she wrote, 'To One of My Valentines.' "

And from Daniel J. Sheehan, custodian of city hall, came this: "The valentine that lingers most pleasantly in my memory was received 15 years ago from McNeely brothers of California, whom I had the pleasure to guide when they visited Boston on an official inspection tour.

"On a card, with the usual valentine trappings, they wrote: 'To the custodian who knows his business best of any custodian we have met since leaving California.' "

Thomas J. Hurley, chairman of the board of street commissioners, spoke of an anonymous valentine sender.

"She sent to me the valentine I remember best," said the chairman in perfect rhetorical English. "It was pretty. It said: 'To My Valentine.' But Tennyson never wrote a more polished verse. I there had been autos in those days I would have been run over 100 times."

From Mayor Nichols came the following tribute to Marjorie, who once was First Lady of the city:

"The valentine that my little daughter, Marjorie, made for me when she started to go to kindergarten lingers and will continue to linger best in my memory. There was no writing on it, but it was eloquent in its thought."

James E. Ingraham, appraiser of the port of Boston, said of his best valentine:

"A stray dog is directly responsible for the most impressive valentine I ever received. As a young man I was very fond of bicycle riding and often took part in bike races.

"In the spring of 1893 (ask yourself if this isn't a confession), I took part in a 25-mile race and as I neared the tape my nearest competitor was several feet behind me. It seemed that I was the victor. Suddenly a stray dog dashed from the sidewalk directly into the path of my bike. I was coming too fast to avoid hitting him. There was a crash and I was thrown to the street. The man behind me flashed on to victory.

"On the following Valentine's Day, February 14, 1894, I received a valentine from the lady who is now Mrs. Ingraham. It depicted a dog running into the path of a bicycle racer and a pretty girl on the sidelines shouting, 'Look out!' "

Daring stuff for a girl in '94.

W. W. Lufkin, collector of the port of Boston, goes back only eight years.

"The most impressive valentine I ever received came to me in 1921," he said today. "It was the afternoon of the 14th of February when I was notified, informally and confidentially, that I was likely to be selected for collector of customs for the port of Boston and was asked if I would accept the position."

BLIND, TO LISTEN FOR CLEW

Chicago, Feb. 14 (AP)—A blind man waited in a hospital bed today for the sound of a voice he had not heard for 10 years. If he recognized it, police said the slaying of James Patterson in 1919 was solved; that the long-sought slayer and terrorist, Frank (Whitey) Moran, was in custody.

Patterson was the man who "squealed," disclosing a plot by radicals to bomb the United States army headquarters, the City Hall, the county building, the Union League Club and the Chicago Club. He was shot by Moran in a West Madison st. hotel.

Earl Martin, 33½ years old, blind and ill, was an "ear witness" of the shooting. His mother operated the hotel and Martin was in Patterson's room when the shots were fired. Moran a few minutes before had entered the hotel, demanding to see Patterson.

"I know he had a pistol," Martin said, "because I heard some one say to him, 'Don't shoot a blind man.'"

Martin went to Patterson's room to call him. Moran followed, shot Patterson and then told the blind man not to talk about it "or something will happen to you."

The man police are holding gave the name Arthur Davis when arrested several days ago. A check of fingerprints and Bertillon measurements, police said, showed that those of Davis and Moran were identical. Davis persisted in denying he is Moran.

VICTIM OF GAS IS SAVED AFTER LONG FIGHT

An emergency crew of the Suburban Gas & Electric Light Co. won a three-hour battle against death early today when they revived George Di Stefano, 18, of 10 Oxford pl., Revere, after he had been prostrated by carbon monoxide gas.

Di Stefano was found by a friend, Amando Desario of 240 Revere st., Revere, unconscious under his automobile in the garage next to his home after he had gone there to draw the water off the radiator of the machine as a precaution against freezing.

On arrival in the garage, Di Stefano had apparently found the radiator already frozen and had started the motor to thaw it.

Deserio notified Dr. Harry Masters, who on arrival immediately summoned the emergency crew, composed of John Deary John Mc Mahon and William McDuby.

The men labored for three hours over the unconscious youth, employing the prone method of resuscitation, and just when it seemed that their efforts were in vain, Di Stefano stirred slightly.

Sergt. John T. Starkey and Patrolman McLaughlin of the Revere department, who were also summoned to the garage, aided the emergency crew.

Di Stefano was carried into his house, where Dr. Masters said he would probably recover.

VETS PLAN 31ST ANNIVERSARY OF MAINE SINKING

Officials of State and city will be numbered among the speakers at exercises to be held in Faneuil Hall tomorrow night under the auspices of the Boston Municipal Council, U. S. W. V., in celebration of the 31st anniversary of the sinking of the battleship Maine.

Frederick E. Dowling of Boston City Council and president of the Boston Municipal Council, U. S. W. V., will preside, and former Congressman Joseph A. Conry will be the orator of the evening.

Other speakers will be Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, Brig.-Gen. E. Leroy Sweetser, representing Governor Frank G. Allen; Lieut.-Gov. William S. Youngman, a veteran of the Spanish War, and the commanders of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

An interesting feature will be the formal "trooping of the colors," in which many of the local organizations of war veterans will present their national and State emblems. More flags have been offered for tomorrow evening's anniversary than have ever appeared at a previous demonstration of this kind.

The various auxiliaries of the veteran organizations will be present, both in person and through their colors.

The invitation of the congregation of Emanuel was accepted with expressions of thanks.

COLLAPSES IN ALIBING CHINESE

Deathly pale and accompanied by a nurse, Louis Bernstein, Roxbury taxi driver, was assisted to the witness stand today and testified in behalf of Lem Poy and Harry Lamph charged with the tong murder of Lee Wee Kin, South End laundryman.

After testifying that the two Chinese appeared at his Humboldt ave. garage about 8:30 on the night of the slaying, and that he drove them to their home in Crestwood Park, a short distance away, Bernstein was stricken by an attack of illness and was carried from the courtroom on a chair.

Albert Nelson of Crestwood Park, brother-in-law of Lem Poy, preceded Bernstein on the witness stand when the defense opened in Suffolk Superior criminal court. He testified that Poy and Harry Lamb arrived home about eight o'clock on the night of the slaying.

Under cross examination he admitted going to East Dedham st., station at the request of his sister, and telling the police that Lem Poy got home at 7:30. Nelson sobbed several times while testifying.

Mrs. Ethel Elmire, sister of Mrs. Lem Poy, followed Bernstein, with whom she said she talked the day following the shooting. She identified Bernstein told her Lem Poy's car came in before eight o'clock, and that the two Chinese then got into the taxi and were driven home. The witness said she looked on the garage records and could find no check on the time the car was put up.

She said Harry Lamb had also made his home with the family for several months off and on, and had gone back there to live the day before the murder.

She was followed by Mrs. Lem Poy, white wife of the defendant.

Germany Hates War Debt, Women Hear

GERMANY will challenge the prosperity report of S. Parker Gilbert, brilliant young Boston finance expert, during the present reparations conference in Paris, predicted Prof. George E. Miller of Tufts College, addressing the Dedham Woman's Club.

"Gilbert, after five years' survey of Germany's national resources and industrial conditions, reports that she is able to meet payments under the Dawes plan without even raising the money, so firm is her national prosperity," he explained. "She will not like that report in the face of poverty propaganda poured into this country for the past 10 years trying to convince us that she is economically crippled by the occupation of the Rhine and similar grievances since Versailles.

"She claims that she has met the payments regularly in the past only by borrowing the money and that she cannot continue to meet them handicapped by post war conditions affecting her industries and commerce."

Prof. Miller said that Germany like other conquered nations, hates to pay war reparations and may ask for a revaluation of her resources, seeking to evade full payment.

J. P. Morgan and Owen Young, who are attending the conference, he explained, are there only as onlookers.

"Our State Department very properly refused to consider sending delegates to such a meeting, he said. "Germany could then say that whatever the conference decided had been officially sanctioned by this nation and could then simply refuse to pay."

TWO EVENTS OF IMPORTANCE ON TOMORROW'S CALENDAR

Juniors Dance at Copley-Plaza; Miss Anne Walcott to Be Honored at Buckingham Hall Affair

THE JUNIOR LEAGUE CALENDAR has served its purpose well for the season, but its story of dinners, balls and teas is almost told. There are but two function listed on the calendar for the remainder of this week and after these the debutante must go South if she would continue her round of galeties. These two affairs are both scheduled for tomorrow evening, one being the Junior Supper Dance at the Copley-Plaza and the other Mrs. Charles Walcott's dance at Buckingham Hall for her debutante daughter, Miss Anna Walcott.

PRECEDING THE DANCE Mrs. Walcott will entertain the ushers and a group of her daughter's friends at dinner at the Walcott home on Sparks st., Cambridge. Many of the debutantes who will attend the dinner graduated from the Winsor school with Miss Walcott, the ushers being for the most part Harvard men.

BUT, WHILE THE JUNIOR Leagus has reached its quota of entertainments, a group of young men has recently sent out invitations to one of the most exclusive social events of the season. On Friday, the 22nd of February, the bachelors' dance will be held at the Algonquin Club. Among those in charge of the affairs are Messrs. Frederick S. Allen, Roger Amory, Chandler Bigelow, Edward S. Brewer, Charles C. Cabot, Powell M. Cabot, Amory Coolidge, William A. Coolidge, Robert A. Lancaster, Samuel Peabody, Harold S. Vanderbilt, Edwin S. Webster, Jr., and Frederick S. Whitlock.

MRS. ARTHUR G. ROBBINS of Winchester was one of the hostesses yesterday at the Brittany Coffee Shop at 222 Newbury st. She will be there every Wednesday while Mrs. Lawrence Dodge is in Bermuda. Mrs. Carl Dreyfus is chairman of the coffee shop, which contributes largely to the support of the Household Nursing Association. MISS LOUISA JAMES

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. James of Mt. Vernon st. who is spending the winter in Paris studying music. (White Studio photo.)

IN THE JUNIOR LEAGUE rooms, at 6 Commonwealth ave., the exhibition of paintings by Harry Sutton, Jr., continues to attract many visitors. This is the first of a series of a professional exhibition arranged by Mrs. Alexander Neilson, chairman of the League's arts and crafts, and its reception augurs well for the success of Mrs. Neilson's program.

MR. SUTTON IS EXHIBITING two oil paintings, both portraits of young women. Executed in much the same fashion they represent, nevertheless, two entirely different temperaments and hang most effectively opposite one another, they form a striking contrast and an interesting study. The remainder of the exhibition consists of landscapes in water colors. The artist has been particularly successful in his treatment of the sea which he has handled from several different angles.

CALIFORNIA BECOMES increasingly popular each year with those who tire of the rigors of a New England winter, and who are fortunate enough to be able to spare the time for a trip across the country. Mr. and Mrs. William F. Thayer and Mr. Edward K. Thayer of Brookline are among those who have deserted Boston for the west coast this month. They have been staying for a few days at the Hotel del Monte in Del Monte, California.

MANY DISTINGUISHED names are on the list of patronesses for the program of dancing to be given under the direction of Miss Helen A. Curtin of the department of dancing at the Beaver Country Day School, Chestnut Hill, in the ballroom of the Hotel Statler this coming Saturday at 3 o'clock. Many of these patronesses are mothers of pupils in the school. The list includes Mrs. Edward L. Bigelow, Mrs. J. Gardner Bradley, Mrs. Richard S. Eustis, Mrs. John Hoar, Mrs. Morton P. Prince, Mrs. William W. Vaughan, Mrs. Edward H. Warren and Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth.

MORE LEADERS OF THOUGHT RIDDLE CLAIMS OF PROHIBITIONISTS

TEMPERANCE PLAN SEEN AS SOLUTION IN $25,000 CONTEST

with repeal of the Volstead Act, denouncing the evils of the amendment and hailing the necessity of a crucial change at this time.

That prohibition has failed to produce temperance they agreed in unison. Backed up by statistics and the written observations of the country's clergymen, the Constitutional Liberty League, with offices in Boston, countenanced the Hearst dry plan offer with unequivocal vigor and support.

Through its president, Charles S. Rackemann, and general counsel, Julian Codman, the league issued the following statement:

"We have read Mr. Hearst's statement with interest and pleasure. It is refreshing to have the editor of a great chain of newspapers reaching many millions of our citizens speak the whole truth about the 18th Amendment. The 18th Amendment will never be enforced, because a nation cannot be coerced, nor can temperance ever result from intemperance.

Approval Is Voiced By Society Matron

"Mr. Hearst is quite right. This question will never be settled by the extremists of either side. His offer of $25,000 for the best plan for the repeal of the 18th Amendment and for the restoration of temperance thereafter, should bring many valuable suggestions and should bear fruit in a genuinely constructive plan.

"The Constitutional Liberty League congratulates Mr. Hearst for his courage and frankness and will do everything within its power to assure the success of the plan as suggested by him."

And just as strong an approval of the need for a change in the prohibition problem was voiced by Mrs. Strafford Wentworth of Milton, society matron.

"Of course I believe the prohibition law should be repealed," she stated. "I wouldn't have worked so vigorously for its removal hadn't I believed it to be one of the most absurd and ridiculous laws ever to be placed on our statute books. It is perfectly abominable that anything so ludicrous should be countenanced by a thinking public. I am perfectly willing to go on record as opposing its continuance and one who would welcome a repeal of the prohibition law and a change for temperance commensurate with the rights and liberties of the individual."

The Rev. Kenneth Gerner of Waltham approved the plan as follows:

"After reading Mr. Hearst's offer for a substitute prohibition and true temperance plan, it seems to me not to be such a bad idea after all. It has its redeeming elements and should be given a try just as any experiment should be scientifically tested. To be sure, there are some who have profited by the amendment, but on the other hand there are those who have suffered. Yes, I think there is something to the editor's plan and I'd like to see something go through that would bring about real temperance."

Henry F. Kamp of Detroit, author of the book, "In the Light of Divine Right," representing 19 years of research on the subjects of prohibition and temperance, writes to the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest to say:

"Burke, in his vindication of national society, says that 'A people, who in general are excluded from any share of the Legislature, are to all intents and purposes as much slaves, when 20 independent of them, govern as when but one domineers.'

"May I suggest that the parallel, or equivalent of the foregoing, is that if 20 or more legislators and their constituents, the prohibitionists, can exclude from the family table remedial beverages, and can persuade a minor part of the people of the United States to vote for or tolerate prohibition, which stands for the denial and abolition of God-given rights, then the remaining part, including those who have always obeyed the admonition, 'be ye temperate in all things,' as well as those who have never tasted wine or beer, are virtually slaves. They are slaves to the will of the prohibitionist minority due to the unjust prohibition law.

"Biblical history and all world history prove that when a law measure falls short of its purpose, and we now have had ten years of prohibition rule, it must be because it does not meet with divine sanction."

Kamp, an entrant in the prize competition, declares that for the sake of those who view the subject on moral or religious grounds, he studied every verse in both the old and new testaments of the Bible, from Genesis to Revelations, to ascertain whether there were any ethical ground for the support of prohibition. He adds:

"I found no positive commandment of God to abstain from drink, directed toward peoples or nations as a whole. There are precautionary suggestions for the benefit of certain individuals. But there is nothing more mandatory than 'be ye temperate in all things.'

"In my book I have given for those who reverence the bible, and in regular order, the books, chapters and verses relating to wine and strong drink, comprising a complete compendium, each followed by commentary notes and comparisons.

"My work is not in the interest of either wets or drys, but it is for the benefit of those who desire to retain their God-given prerogatives in the exercise of will power over appetite, desire and choice of conduct, free of the stigma cast upon them by the unprecedented prohibition law."

The author is one of those of belief, that even under normal conditions, more die of overeating than of overdrinking, and not taking into account the poisonous liquids dispensed illicitly under prohibition in greater flood than were pure beverages containing alcohol prior to prohibition.

He quotes Dr. Olive T. Osborne of the department of medicine, Yale University, as saying:

"Alcohol may, under proper conditions, and in certain diseases, be used not only as a drug, but as a food. It will prevent or solidify acidosis, and in starvation, or when solids may not be taken it will prevent emergencies, and prolong life under serious conditions.

"The alcohol content of popular beverages are, whiskey, 48 per cent; brandy, 50 per cent; gin, 20; 25 per cent; rum, 80 per cent; sherry and port, each 18 per cent; sauterne, 11 per cent; claret and champagne, each, 10 per cent; ale, six per cent; beer, four per cent. All beers are rich in carbohydrates and are most nourishing."

This discussion is one of hundreds being received daily from all parts of the civilized world in all languages, since aliens may compete in the temperance prize contest. The Kamp views are not, however, a part of his entry in the contest.

Interviews by correspondents of the Hearst newspapers with persons of note on the purposes of the contest and what it is expected to accomplish follow:

GUY E. CAMPBELL, Representative in Congress from Pennsylvania—I heartily endorse Mr. Hearst's $25,000 temperance prize contest sponsored by him for the development of a more adequate plan, designed to promote national temperance. I am strongly in favor of any movement which will work for real temperance and have hopes that much good will result from this contest.

CHARLES H. KLINE, mayor of Pittsburgh—It is not the function of a public official who occupies an executive position to express whether, in his personal opinion, any certain law is right or wrong.

It is his duty to accept the law as he finds it, execute it to the best of his ability, and leave the matter of enforcement and discussion as to change, to those occupying legislative positions and to the people themselves who finally make and unmake all laws.

MAYOR WRITES

For these reasons, during my incumbency of the office of mayor of a great city such as Pittsburgh, I have religiously refused to express my views as to my personal views on the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act.

But, while still insisting in this course and refraining from a comment as to the merits or demerits of prohibition, there are some things I can say.

It is obvious that a great division of opinion exists on the subject. It is obvious, also, that there is widespread dissatisfaction and that this is present in the camp of the proponents as well as the opponents of prohibition. It must be admitted that the law is ignored and held in contempt by a considerable percentage of our citizens.

The situation has been created that calls for sane and sensible thought. The views of the extreme wets and the extreme drys should be regarded as being biased. The final decision should rest with what might be called the "moderates" who, in the final analysis, always prevail in numbers when it comes to the settlement of issues vital to the republic.

Prohibition is the biggest question before the American people. Mr. Hearst, with his newspapers, is looking at it in a big way. His action is really the first forward move, in a constructive American way, to produce a real American result.

MISS M. LOUISE GROSS, lecturer, and an ardent dry, said:

I am delighted with the Hearst prize contest for the best plan to restore temperance to the United States. Public sentiment is now in favor of present national prohibition as proven by the results in the recent referendum in Massachusetts and in Montana and all states where voters have had an opportunity to vote on question of repeal or modification.

Congratulations on the contest. The great middle classes are looking for a leadership out of prohibition chaos and feel sure Mr. Hearst will accomplish the desired result, through his $25,000 prize offer.

Prohibition Called Farcical by U. S. Expert

San Francisco, Feb. 13—Prohibition, as constituted under present dry laws, is farcical; a change is needed and almost any change would bring improvement.

Commenting on William Randolph Hearst's offer of $25,000 for a practical temperance plan, George Rosen James, member of the Federal Reserve Board at Washington, made this declaration. James is in San Francisco on his annual tour of Federal Reserve banks.

After expressing an opinion that prohibition laws are unsound, he swung into a discussion of national business conditions. These he finds good, but deprecates the tendency toward general speculation.

"Everybody in America," he said, "is trying to get rich, too."

Approval Is Voiced By Society Matron

"Mr. Hearst is quite right. This question will never be settled by the extremists of either side. His offer of $25,000 for the best plan for the repeal of the 18th Amendment and for the restoration of temperance thereafter, should bring many valuable suggestions and should bear fruit in a genuinely constructive plan.

"The Constitutional Liberty League congratulates Mr. Hearst for his courage and frankness and will do everything within its power to assure the success of the plan as suggested by him."

The Rev. Kenneth Gerner of Waltham approved the plan as follows:

Chicago, Feb. 14—A two-year penitentiary sentence and fine of $11,000 were imposed Titus A. Haffa, Chicago councilman and former political lieutenant of Mayor William Hale Thompson in federal court here. He was convicted last week of operating a $5,000,000 liquor ring.

MELLON RAISES ESTIMATE FOR DRY FUND

Washington, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Treasury has advised the House appropriations committee that it could use an additional $2,500,000 this year in the enforcement of prohibition.

The estimate was sent to the committee in response to an inquiry that developed in consideration of the proposal of Senator Harris of Georgia to make an additional $24,000,000 available immediately. The proposal now is awaiting action by the Senate, since the refusal of House conferees to accept it.

The treasury advised the committee that the $2,500,000 could be used to strengthen the prohibition and customs bureaus.

Secretary Mellon said today that the request for the additional appropriation would be transmitted to the House through the budget bureau in the ordinary course of business.

When the Harris proposal first was before the Senate, Secretary Mellon wrote to Chairman Warren of the Senate appropriations committee that it would be undesirable to place a lump sum of such character in the hands of any one person without a plan for allocating it.

SHIP BOARD IS FREE SO CLOSE FLEET DEAL

Washington, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Senate commerce committee voted today not to interfere with the proposed sale by the shipping board of the Atlantic fleet of Government vessels to Paul W. Chapman, Inc., of New York.

The decision leaves the shipping board free to act and it has informed the committee that six of the seven board members favor the sale to Chapman for $16,300,000.

Chapman's bid was for the 11 ships of the United States and American merchant lines, including the giant liner Leviathan.

Chapman proposes to build immediately two ships of the size of the Leviathan and to construct seven vessels over a period of 10 years.

The bidder would pay immediately 25 per cent of the price for the Government ships, and he guarantees to continue the fleet under the American flag for 10 years.

With this sale the Government will have disposed of the prize ships of its wartime fleet.

$6400 VERDICT IN AUTO DEATH IS SUSTAINED

The full bench of the Supreme Court today sustained the verdict of a Middlesex Superior Court jury awarding $6400 to Mrs. Vera J. Murray of Lowell in her suit against Abraham Imbursky of Milford, growing out of an auto accident in June 1927.

Mrs. Murray sought damages for the death of her husband. Imbursky's exceptions were overruled by the full bench entitling Mrs. Murray to judgment.

Imbursky's truck, carrying a heavy load of iron bars, collided with a sedan driven by the widow's husband, Francis T. Murray, testimony showed.

The accident happened at Sherbourne, when Murray's sedan was turning a corner. In the crash the Murray car was demolished.

CHARLESTOWN PRIEST IS 82 TODAY

Felicitations were pouring in today on the Rev. Fr. John W. McMahon, D.D., for 47 years pastor of St. Mary's Church, Charlestown, and the oldest living alumnus of Holy Cross College, who is observing his 82nd birthday at his home in St. Mary's Rectory, Monument sq., Charlestown. Rev. Dr. McMahon enjoys good health, and in good weather daily takes walks through the streets of Charlestown.

He was born in Charlestown on February 14, 1847, and is a graduate of the Charlestown high school. He also was graduated from Holy Cross College, Worcester, and went to Rome for his philosophical and theological studies in the American College, and was ordained to the priesthood in May, 1872, in the Church of St. John's Lateran, in Rome. He was an assistant at St. Stephen's Church in the North End, following his ordination until 1881, when he was appointed pastor of old St. Mary's Church on Rutherford ave., Charlestown.

At the centennial celebration of the parish last October, Cardinal O'Connell paid a high tribute to Rev. Dr. McMahon and to St. Mary's parish. Cardinal O'Connell stated that his presence at the solemn pontifical mass in observance of the centennial, was a personal tribute to Rev. Fr. McMahon, who was called a "model for young priests to follow."

During his 47 years as pastor, Dr. McMahon has erected the new St. Mary's Church at Warren, Soley and Winthrop sts., Charlestown, the cornerstone being laid in 1887. He has also constructed for his parish, a parochial school and a parish clubhouse, and acquired property for the parochial residence, the convent and St. Mary's women's clubhouse in Monument sq., and also remodeled the old convent on Winthrop st., for additional school rooms.

Rev. Fr. James H. Phalan is assistant pastor, and besides the Rev. James L. Davey, the other assistants are the Rev. Ralph W. Farrell and the Rev. Lyman A. Merrill.

"The activities of a newspaper demand good physical condition. I find Lucky Strike an immeasurable aid in helping me keep trim and fit. Whenever I am tempted to eat between meals, I light up a Lucky. Toasting makes Lucky Strike the cigarette of joy and benefit."

LUCKY STRIKE
"IT'S TOASTED"
CIGARETTES

THE modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during the year 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

LENTEN DRAMA IN 27TH YEAR

"Pilate's Daughter," the Mission Church Lenten drama, enters its 27th season at St. Alphonsus Hall, Smith st., Roxbury, tonight at 8:15.

A capacity audience is expected to view the initial performance which also marks the first appearance of a number of the principals.

Rev. Francis L. Kenzel, C. SS. R. author and director, is enthusiastic concerning the powers of eight-year-old Mary Blizard, who portrays the title role during the first act.

According to Fr. Kenzel, who has been watching the little miss very closely during rehearsals, she has a brilliant future in theatrical work.

Mary Bowen bids fair to equal her former successes in the role of Claudia, Pilate's daughter, which she has during the major portion of the play.

New arrangements in staging and scenic effects have been made since last year, when the play was seen by 25,000 people. The number will probably be exceeded this year.

Beginning tonight, the play will be offered every Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Sunday afternoons until March 24.

Boy Burglars Give Away $50,000 Gems, Keep $4

Mineola, N. Y., Feb. 14 (AP)—Three 18-year-old youths, held in connection with a score of robberies in Nassau county were said by police today to have admitted giving away $50,000 worth of jewelry to girl friends and relatives, keeping for themselves trinkets worth about $1.

Detectives found one of the girls, a servant in Jersey City washing dishes while wearing a $6000 diamond ring and a waitress with a $2500 diamond wrist watch. Both articles were identified as having been part of the loot obtained in recent robberies of wealthy homes on Long Island.

The boys are Michael Szymanski, William Pospiech and Frank Grafonski, all of Jersey City. They were arrested in Queens while robbing an apartment house.

JAPAN DEBATES NAVAL COSTS

Tokyo, Feb. 14 (AP)—Naval construction costs bulked large in the proceedings of the budget committee of the Japanese diet today and Baron Tanaka, premier, and Keisuke Okada, navy minister, had to answer several questions respecting the Government attitude toward possible postponements of construction or modification of the 5-5-3 Washington naval agreement.

Baron Tanaka, when questioned whether the Government had considered a proposal that the existing "naval holiday" should be extended beyond 1931, when the Washington treaty is due for revision, said this would depend upon the attitude which the other powers might assume at the conferences called for that year.

BOSTON WELCOMES BON-TONE

The World's Foremost Remedy for Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowel Complaints Has Taken New England by Storm and Thousands of Residents Have Testified as to Its Great Merits

Mr. Arthur Chouinard, Bon-Tone Representative at Cole Drug Co., 636 Mass. Ave., Cambridge

"The First and Only Medicine That Ever Helped Me!"

Rarely A Day Passes But That Is Not Said To

THE BON-TONE MAN

He will tell you of neighbors of yours who have been wonderfully relieved by this great herbal remedy.

Constipation—Man's Worst Peril

Constipation has been called "Man's Worst Peril" by Sir Arbuthnot Lane, England's greatest medical luminary and surgeon to King George.

He did not mince words. "Constipation," he said, "is responsible for ulcers and finally cancer. Civilization itself is menaced by it. Of the whole population of Great Britain, at least five millions will die of cancer, unless they are educated about health.

"The fact is exactly this. The lower end of the intestine is of a size that requires emptying every six hours, but from habit we retain its contents twenty-four hours. The results are ulcers and cancer. The products of intestinal toxemia are absorbed and we have filthy blood. The organs degenerate."—(According to New York Graphic of April 17th, 1926.)

Liver Troubles

When the liver is torpid and fails to furnish bile, there are constipation, headache and indigestion. When it furnishes too much bile, a portion of this exceedingly bitter and nauseous secretion flows into the stomach and there is biliousness, with bitter taste in the mouth, coated tongue and nausea. When the bile for any reason is absorbed into the blood there is jaundice, characterized by yellowness of the skin, eyes, tissues and secretions.

Bon-Tone has been used to great advantage in dispelling liver complaints.

Suffered Five Years With Indigestion—Bon-Tone Brings Relief

Mrs. Moses P. Ash of 28 Carlisle St., Lowell, says: "At last I have found the right remedy for indigestion. I have suffered for five long years and tried ever so many different remedies without getting any results that I had decided nothing would help. After every meal gas would form and give me great distress. Even warm water, taken in an effort to get relief, would only add to the burning sensation in my stomach. I was subject to severe attacks of dizziness and would at times be obliged to hold on to a chair when walking around the house and wouldn't dare venture to walk down the street. I frequently would be confined to my room for days with a splitting headache. I read so much about Bon-Tone that I decided to give it a thorough trial, and now, after taking six bottles of this medicine, am glad to say that my indigestion has been corrected as has the dizziness and headaches and I feel like my old self again—thanks to Bon-Tone."

MRS. MOSES ASH

To meet the demand indicated by hundreds of mail orders for Bon-Tone received daily from Boston and vicinity we have placed three representatives here to explain fully the merits of Bon-Tone

"I Only Wish I'd Known About Bon-Tone Long Ago." Hundreds Have Said That to

THE BON-TONE MAN

Bon-Tone has already made thousands of friends in New England. These thousands have suffered with ailments arising from disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels and who, since taking Bon-Tone, have gone on their way happy and rejoicing that their health has been restored.

Stomach Trouble

Indigestion, dyspepsia and gastritis are the most common complaints of the American people.

The signs of stomach trouble cannot be mistaken, they are written plainly upon the face of the sufferer, and these signals should be heeded. Some of them are, pale complexion, dropsy eyes, lines in the face, and a worn, haggard expression. Other symptoms are excess gas in the stomach, griping, headaches, loss of appetite, foul taste in the mouth, bad breath, tired-out feeling, nervousness and lack of sleep. A healthy stomach will throw off the poisons as nature intends, but a sick stomach is a hotbed for multiplying germs which are sucked up by the blood and carried to other parts of the body. Pimples, boils, blotches, skin eruptions are caused by the resulting blood impurities. Bon-Tone has proven its value in the treatment of aggravated cases of stomach trouble.

Rheumatism

Bon-Tone has overcome rheumatism in thousands of cases where so-called "Rheumatic Cures" have failed, and the reason for this is easy to understand. While there is no known treatment that is effective in all types of rheumatism because of the many forms, nevertheless the most common type, perhaps, is that caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood. Weak, deranged kidneys allow the uric acid to collect so thickly that the blood cannot hold it in solution so that it precipitates and forms sharp, ragged crystals which lodge in the joints and stick in the muscles and cause agonizing pains with every movement. Nothing short of a medicine to strengthen the kidneys and build up a pure, rich, abundant blood supply will dissolve those ragged crystals of uric acid and pass them out of the system, and for this purpose there is no medicine in the world more efficient than Bon-Tone.

"I Was a Nervous Wreck, Couldn't Sleep and Always Felt Tired," Says Mrs. Deslauriers

MRS. IDA DESLAURIERS

"I want all my friends to know what Bon-Tone has done for me so that if they have similar troubles they will know what to do for relief," says Mrs. Ida Deslauriers of 49 Austin St., New Bedford, Mass. "I was a nervous wreck—my nerves were so unstrung that I felt as though I would go out of my mind and I couldn't sleep and just felt tired all the while. Sometimes I would feel hot and then cold and then numb. My stomach was all out of order and I would get terrible gas pains and heartburn. When eating sometimes I would feel as though I would choke. I was subject to dizzy spells that would come on me suddenly and I would think I was going to fall. Rheumatic pains troubled me in my arms and limbs and constipation was another source of complaint. Bon-Tone has certainly put me on the road to health—I haven't felt so well in a long, long time. All my ailments have been relieved and I just can't say too much for this wonderful remedy."

GRANDMA GAVE 'MEDICINE' TO 8TH VICTIM

St. Joseph, Mich, Feb. 14 (AP)—Although claiming to have obtained conflicting statements from Mrs. Ethel Lewis, held on charges by her daughter that she had poisoned her infant grandson last Sunday, and killed seven other children during the last five years, county authorities admitted today that four hours of questioning had failed to alter materially her denial of the daughter's accusation.

Mrs. Lewis, according to Prosecutor Wilbur N. Cunningham, admitted having placed a "sore mouth medicine" in milk given Clarence Wesley Gorham, 18 months old, who died Sunday.

"It's a lie; they're all lies," she shouted, as her daughter, Mrs Okel Gorham, accused her of not only poisoning and choking Clarence Wesley, but also of disposing of three grandchildren and four of her own children.

Asked why her daughter should accuse her wrongfully, Mrs. Lewis said:

"She wants to put me over the road so she can have what I've got in the house."

The house is a two-room shack of tar paper on the outskirts of Eau Claire, with sagging doors and heated occasionally with a tiny cook stove.

Prosecutor Cunningham said warrants would be issued for the two women today and a mental examination would be arranged for later. He intimated no charges would be made against the two husbands.

Five Banks Closed

Bluffton, Ind., Feb. 14 (INS)—In the face of the financial hysteria sweeping Wells County, which yesterday forced four banks to suspend operations, the board of directors of the Union Savings and Trust Company, a $400,000 institution, today decided to close the bank.

U. S. SALLIES TO SUPPORT NEW GENERAL

Sunbury-on-Thames, Eng., Feb. 14 (AP)—Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army in the United States, today assured Edward J. Higgins, the newly-elected general of the united support of the Army in America.

Commissioner Booth, sister of Gen. Bramwell Booth, the deposed leader, and long one of the chief figures of the reform movement in the Army, spoke at an informal meeting of the High Council today and testified to her joy "that the Army had reached safer channels."

Today's meeting was to consider various questions arising from the council's action in adjudicating Gen. Booth physically unfit to continue in his office, and in electing Commissioner Higgins.

WORK WILL GO ON.

Gen. Higgins said it would be necessary for him to meet Bramwell Booth at some time for transference of the trusteeship, but, should he be unwilling to transfer this it would inevitably become a legal question.

"That is the last thing we wish," he said, "but even if it happened, the work of the army can be carried on because I, as chief of staff, hold the power of attorney, that is the banking powers which give me control of the funds."

END OF ONE-MAN CONTROL

"One-man control of the army, as far as funds are concerned, will definitely disappear," he said.

Gen. Higgins, discussing rumors that there was a possibility of American dissatisfaction that the generalship remained in the hands of an Englishman, said: "The suggestion that America desires control of the army is absolutely without foundation. There never has been a word or gesture to suggest such a desire."

He added that the commissioners had sent Bramwell Booth a message of love and affection with their warm wishes that he would soon be restored to health. "There is no ill-feeling," he said. "Please stress that. We have nothing but love and affection for him."

Police Captain's Dog, Gone 2 Years, is "Home" Again

Police Capt. Tappan of Revere has his dog again. A year ago Capt. Tappan presented "Jack" to a friend in the South End and the friend presented the Boston terrier to a friend of his own.

For a year Capt. Tappan had not seen the animal, but today there were several yelps heard outside the door at Revere police headquarters, and when the door was opened, "Jack" bounded in with a rope trailing from his collar

MANIAC'S SOS LAST WORD OF DOOMED SHIP

Dutch Harbor, Alaska, Feb. 14 (INS)—A crazed man tapping out unintelligible dots and dashes on the steamer Alloway was the last heard of the vessel, it was disclosed today when Capt. Throckmorton arrived with the rest of his crew after being rescued by the steamer Montauk.

When a tow line between the Alloway and the Montauk parted Capt. Throckmorton gave orders to abandon ship. An oiler named Posey refused to leave.

In spite of threats of the skipper to shoot him unless he left the ship, the oiler, laughing crazily, ran away and defied the crew.

Hours after the radio operator of the Montauk heard Posey fumbling with the radio equipment on the Alloway. Posey had no knowledge of the radio apparatus and was merely sending out signals at random.

The Alloway was abandoned eight miles from Scotch Cap lighthouse, drifting toward the rocks.

Paderewski Ill

Nice, France, Feb. 14 (INS)—Ignace Paderewski, famous Polish pianist, is seriously ill here of influenza today. He was sick upon his arrival to play at a charity concert.

Ausonia Council to Hold Memorial

A memorial mass for departed brothers of Ausonia Council, Knights of Columbus, will be celebrated in St. Joseph's Church, West End, Friday, February 22. The Rev. William P. Heaney, pastor of the church, will be celebrant and will also deliver the sermon.

Grand Knight Charles D. Velardo has appointed Past Grand Knight Alfred Santosuosso, Leonard Castellini and Charles Perriello to assist in the conduct of the ceremony.

Fight Fire From New York Bridge

New York, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Manhattan bridge over the East river was utilized by firemen early today in combatting a $100,000 blaze in a six-story loft building filled with dyes under the bridge, near the Brooklyn waterfront. They dragged hose on to the bridge and poured water down on the blazing building, while traffic was suspended.

TO PRINT NOVEL BY VANDERBILT

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., went to Reno to file suit for divorce. Now he has dipped his pen in the acid of experience and written the great novel of the American nation's morals. RENO.

In all the history of novels, there is nothing to match the up-to-the-minuteness of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.'s, monument to his life as a citizen of Reno.

Eloquently, this young author unfolds the romantic story of hearts adrift in the city of disillusioned love. Does Reno set prisoners free? Do slaves become masters? Is the new love greater than the old? Here is a story carved with the cunning of experience.

Reno—the oasis in the desert of matrimonial mistakes; it's a quiet looking station—but it's the gateway to romance or tragedy.

Do not fail to read RENO, beginning next Monday in the Boston Evening American.

Auto Bill Support Urged by Bauer

Vigorous Ralph M. Bauer, mayor of Lynn, endorses, without reservation, the bill of Frank A. Goodwin and the Boston Evening American to establish a State fund to supply compulsory insurance to Massachusetts motorists at cost.

"It's the logical thing" said Mayor Bauer, in discussing the bill (House 225) with a Boston Evening American representative. "When the State compels a motorist to insure his car against personal injuries, due to accidents, as one of the requisites of using the highways, it should be a party to the issuance of the insurance.

"The State should co-ordinate with the motorist and furnish the insurance at cost. If such insurance was effective it would be different but since it is compulsory then the State, having forced the motorist to insure, should supply that insurance at cost.

LOBBY VERY ACTIVE

"Every effort will be made by the insurance lobby, which is well intrenched in both the House and Senate, to defeat the Goodwin-American bill. An aroused public opinion is probably the only thing that will save it. It is up to every motorist who wants to see this measure become law to attend the hearings and have his voice heard in favor."

The insurance lobby of which Mayor Bauer speaks was at work even before the Goodwin-Boston Evening American bill was filed, in an effort to "kill" it, according to Goodwin, who says the insurance interests have already spent at least $150,000 toward that end.

As the 47 private insurance companies doing compulsory insurance in Massachusetts are taking $7,500,000 more from the pockets of car owners than the same protection could be furnished for by the State, if supplied at cost, the reason for this activity is evident, says Goodwin.

Under the provisions of the Goodwin-Boston Evening American bill a flat rate of $16 on passenger cars, $25 on trucks and $50 on taxis, rental cars and buses would be charged as insurance at the time certificates of registration are issued. The elimination of insurance policies alone would result in a saving of $2,700,000, according to Goodwin, who says every insurance policy costs $3 to write and handle. His informant is an insurance company official.

BIG SAVING

Between $20,000,000 and $21,000,000 will be collected by private insurance companies this year from Bay State car owners for compulsory insurance. If the Goodwin-Boston Evening American bill becomes law this vast sum will be cut down approximately one-third.

Among the many to praise the bill are the following:

WILLIAM SHARPE of 5 Richard ter., Dorchester—I want to express my appreciation of your splendid fight in behalf of the bill which would bring about savings of millions of dollars yearly for the car owners of this State. I came home tonight and found, to my astonishment, a bill for $89.50 from my insurance broker, for just one year's insurance. I think it is outrageous. I am heartily in favor of the State taking over not only this form of insurance but all other kinds, such as health and fire. I sincerely hope you will be successful in this fight and if you are let us continue to fight to have the State take over all other forms of insurance that will benefit a majority of our citizens who are being "soaked" by private companies on all kinds of insurance.

CHARLES W. F. BENNETT, a Somerville constable and justice of the peace, who was a candidate for Representative in the last State election—I have believed for a long time that the present compulsory insurance law should be repealed. I am still in this fight and hope we will win.

WILL BENEFIT MANY

JOHN L. AND LUCY L. TAYLOR of 57 Cottage st., Melrose: I hope the Goodwin-Boston Evening American bill passes as it is to bad for poor people to be robbed the way they are being these days.

A. POLLINO of 115 Bowdoin st., Malden: I am one of many motorists who is aroused over the outrageous way in which the insurance companies are using us with respect to compulsory insurance. I am thankful that Mr. Goodwin and the Boston Evening American are making this fight in behalf of the people.

GABRIEL FESTA of 85 Brooks st., East Boston: The automobile companies should get together to help pass the Goodwin-Boston Evening American bill. That would result in the sale of more cars as well as help out the present owners of cars. Everywhere one goes he finds cars in yards without number plates, because the owners cannot afford to operate them on account of the new high rates of insurance.

Readers are invited to write to this newspaper, giving their views of the present law and their opinion of the Goodwin American bill. Is your compulsory insurance cost too high? Do you believe by the present control system of charging? Write us, telling of your experience and opinion.

RUMORS LINK DU PONT AND AM. WOOLEN

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Persistent State and Wall Street rumors link du Pont interests with American Woolen. Stories are heard of du Pont buying in the big New England textile. They may have been partly inspired by the acquisition of another New England-ruled leading industrial, U. S. Rubber, by the du Ponts. Speculators will have it that "where there is so much smoke there must be some fire." They account for the comparatively low prices of American Woolen issues, in the face of "du Pont buying," if that exists, by saying U. S. Rubber prices were also kept low until after actual announcement of the new control.

Another rumor to be heard circulating in State Street is to the effect that Col. Samuel Stewart of Standard Oil of Indiana will, if ousted from his position with that company by Rockefeller interests, become actively identified with Sinclair Oil. There is said to have been active buying of Sinclair by Stewart cohorts in the big market recently.

Who holds the largest number of official positions with various companies? This question is often asked, and frequently answered by the publication of directorates, committees, etc., in which various industrial leaders figure. In this country today the name seems to lie with Matthew C. Brush, former head of the Boston Elevated, and still an official thereof. Mr. Brush, head of the great American International Corp., has just added to his list, having been elected a member of the board and of the executive committee of the Continental Can Co.

In Frederick William Wile's copyrighted column in the Washington Star we find the following: "As long as two weeks ago Washington got wind that the present reaction in the New York stock market was imminent and that it was to be followed, at or about the time of Herbert Hoover's inauguration, by a rousing advance." The New York newspaper which foreshadowed events in its financial page said, under the heading of 'Political Reasons': The friends of Mr. Hoover want to celebrate his inauguration with a rousing advance and fear that if there is not a good-sized reaction in the meanwhile, it might be something of a fizzle. They are said to figure that, with the market getting ready for a few points during early February, it could carry through early March with a rush. The theory is interesting; it is one of the few economic causes classed as important—if true. The reaction has duly ensued. The rousing advance remains to be seen.

WALL ST. HAS "NERVOUS" ATTACK

By W. S. COUSINS

New York, Feb. 14—Wall Street and the stock market developed another case of nerves in trading today. Industrial stocks were thrown heavily on the market and lacking buying support, prices tumbled sharply, with losses extending from 2 to 6 points in the active issues during the half hour. Even the copper stocks, the backbone of the bull movement, were unable to withstand the selling wave without fair-sized reactions. Anaconda dropping about 3 points to below 131.

Stock traders took fright at the possibility of an advance in the rediscount rate at today's meeting of the New York bank directors. Some of the big commission houses sent out urgent bulletins to the customers strongly advising the immediate sale of their holdings of stocks, and those brought in a flood of selling orders.

The big bears were out again in full force, selling the industrial stocks short and Tuesday's gains made on Monday and early Wednesday were entirely wiped out by the afternoon. Conditions in the first hour today.

Despite present highly nervous and erratic condition, the stock market is paying more attention to money market and outside factors than to the steadily improving situation in the country's business. Within a week the average prices of representative stocks has shifted from the highest to the lowest level of the year, in a selling movement which has wiped out many of the illusions upon which the flimsy bull move of late 1928 was based.

Though stock selling slowed down in volume later there was little sign of a rally, except in a few of the speculative favorites in the copper and motor shares.

Money was a little tighter, with call rates at 6½ percent and time money at 7½ percent. The latest advance in bankers' acceptance rates points to the probability of a raise in the rediscount rate of the reserve bank here, though Wall st. does not look for any change today.

The commodity markets were firm, with cotton up about 10 points on larger consumption figures and grain prices fractionally lower.

KINGSBURY IS NAMED IN OIL CONFLICT

New York, Feb. 14 (AP)—The New York Times today says reports were current that K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California, is being considered by the Rockefeller faction as a possible successor to Col. Robert W. Stewart as chairman of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

The Rockefeller interests, says the paper, own a large amount of stock in the Standard of California, some estimates placing three holdings at 20 per cent.

"MIGHT BE INDUCED"

The Times says that, while it is understood in oil circles that Mr. Kingsbury probably would prefer to remain with the California company, he might be induced by the Rockefellers to assume the chairmanship of the Indiana company.

Mr. Kingsbury's name also was brought into the controversy in a statement issued to stockholders of the Indiana company by W. G. Williams, executive trustee of Justicie Society, Inc., an organization of minority stockholders who favor the re-election of Colonel Stewart at the annual meeting on March 7, but his later removal by court action.

MANY QUESTIONS

In his statement Mr. Williams says the Justice Society believes that the crux of the controversy is whether the efforts to remove Stewart are sincerely and altruistically based on a belief that he is unfit for his job, or based on a desire to gain control of the Standard Oil of Indiana, so as to eliminate it as a competitor of corporations in which the Rockefeller group has a far greater financial interest than in the Standard of Indiana.

"We believe that, if the facts warrant, Mr. Stewart can and should be removed without handing over control of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to its commercial rival, Standard Oil of New Jersey, which apparently is using Mr. Rockefeller's shield of right consents to obscure the real object of gaining control of a competitor whom they have so far been unable to outpersonal."

The statement asks the Rockefeller representatives why they have dropped E. G. Seubert as a successor to Colonel Stewart and expresses the belief that the stockholders should be informed who Mr. Rockefeller has in mind for the place.

"Is it perchance Mr. Kenneth Raleigh Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil of California?" concludes the statement.

Calls Investment Trusts Blind Pools—Forbes' Reply

By B. C. FORBES

ARE investment trusts "blind pools?"

That is the question put by a reader.

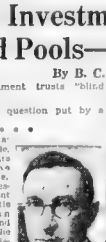
He writes: "Some people, with long years of speculative experience, think the present investment trusts are little better than other 'blind pools' or the old time 'Mississippi Bubble' that swept several public was invited to subscribe to — and they did. Would it be asking too much for P. C. Forbes to suggest that you give the public your views on the subject through your column?"



Candidly, some so-called investment trusts do savor of the blind pools of older days. Usually the operators of such pools were wholly unscrupulous. They "guaranteed" extraordinarily alluring profits, but usually were careful to maintain mystery as to how these profits were made. Such swindles paid dazzling returns for a while—and then suddenly disappeared, leaving no trace behind. Not per cent Mike is still painfully remembered.

[illegible] office and the crim[illegible] authorities handled [illegible] with such robbery and it largely [illegible] today on any large scale.

It is amazing however how many people turn over to others funds for speculative purposes.

Brokers and employees of brokers, as well as others supposedly in close touch with the stock market, are constantly implored by friends and acquaintances and even strangers to accept money "to play the market with," in the hope of reaping bellyful returns. In many instances, of course, such appeals are turned down. But could the whole truth be known, it would be revealed that far more of this kind of thing goes on than the public imagine. In nearly all such cases honest efforts are made to employ the funds intelligently, and profitably.

The great majority of investment trusts are not any more blind pools. The creators of the decent ones specify clearly and explicitly exactly what type of securities shall be purchased with the capital supplied. Not only so, but they give full information concerning the individuals or firms or other interests sponsoring the organization.

Certain varieties of investment trusts do allow the management wide latitude in conducting them.

But the common thing now is for an investment trust to specialize in one class of security. For example, one trust deals chiefly in railway stocks, another in industrials, another in utilities, another in bank stocks, another in certain issues, another in oils, and so on.

Some investment trusts, especially those early originated, drew up a detailed list of the stocks to be purchased and no leeway what soever was granted the trustees to go outside of the original holdings. That type, however, has drawbacks in this country, where changes come swiftly and drastically.

That not a few ventures labeled "investment trusts" will turn out badly is certain. Not always have the promoters been men of recognized probity, judgment and experience. Sometimes it was obvious that their main concern was to enrich themselves—they saw to that before they received a kickoff at the start.

Thus far serious troubles has been avoided because the stock market has been following an upward direction, causing even poorly selected holdings to show a profit. But when the stock boom ends and stock booms always do end, a different tale will have to be told.

As in every other line of business or finance, the wise fund [illegible] investment

Brilliant brokers are usually on a par with brilliant men in their brains, poor results. Look what has just happened in the case of Goldman-Sachs, a New York investment banking firm of very high reputation. It very recently formed an organization along investment trust lines and, lo, in a few weeks the securities have shot up from 100 to well over $200.

What the buyer of shares in an investment trust does is, in effect, this. He hands over his money to certain individuals supposedly more able than he to choose investments wisely. Theoretically this practice is thoroughly sound, since there are many genuine experts on the value of securities, and there are many, many investors who frankly recognize that they themselves are not experts.

But it is just as essential to choose the right kind of people to handle your money as it ever was to choose the right kind of investments.

AUTO EXPORTS IN 1928 HALF BILLION

During the year ended Dec. 31, 1928, the total value of automotive exports amounted to $522,097,974, according to B. H. Cram, president of Cram's Automotive Reports, Inc., industry authority. The 1928 export value total exceeded the corresponding total for 1927 figures by $117,398,369 or 29 per cent. The relative importance of the automotive export market can be rather readily illustrated by showing that during the year 1928 almost the value of automotive exports was nearly $75,000,000 in excess of the total wholesale value of passenger cars and trucks produced in the United States during the year 1914.

The growth that has taken place in the automotive export field over the past few years is easily understood when we compare the annual value figures of automotive exports for the past few years. For example, in 1921, the total value of automotive exports amounted to $81,928,887, while in 1928 exports had increased to approximately $525,000,000, thereby indicating an increase during the period of 541 per cent. During the period between the two just mentioned, an uninterrupted increase has taken place. The following tables of figures clearly illustrates the steady expansion that has taken place in the export market:

Value of Automotive Exports

1921	$81,928,887	1925	$318,900,123
1922	97,858,776	1926	355,199,814
1923	151,903,772	1927	404,699,605
1924	230,858,849	1928	522,097,974

A study of the growth in the number of units exported after the United States also illustrates the remarkable expansion that has taken place in the automotive export market. During 1921, 30,859 passenger cars and 7413 trucks were exported from the United States. During the following two years a marked increase took place in the automotive export market. The expansion can be readily comprehended if a comparison is made of the 1921 figures with the 1923 exports of 127,533 passenger cars and 24,861 trucks. During the period between 1925 and 1927 passenger car exports were not show anywhere near the same rate of increase that was evident during the few years previous to that time.

During this same period, however, there was a substantial growth in the export of trucks; 1925 exports for this group amounted to 60,116 units, while 1927 showed truck exports at 105,447 units.

The expansion already noted in the value of automotive exports during 1928, naturally held true in the number of units exported; 368,328 passenger cars were exported from the United States during 1928. This represented an increase of 89,580 units, or 32.1 per cent over the 278,748 passenger cars exported during the previous year. The total number of passenger cars exported from the United States in 1928 amounted to 96 per cent of the 3,826,613 cars produced in the United States during this same period

The New England Power Association furnishes electric power to Worcester, Providence, Lawrence, Lowell and more than 240 other communities in Rhode Island, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont. Power production and earnings have increased steadily and a remarkably even distribution of the power load has been obtained.

Water conditions were good during the past year and the hydro-production for the system jumped from 470,000,000 k. w. h. to 694,000,000 k. w. h., an increase of 48 percent. To keep pace with the increasing demand, the company is well under way on the construction of the "Fifteen Miles Falls Development" on the upper Connecticut River which will develop a total of 225,000 k. w.

Gross earnings increased from $30,677,247 in 1927 to $31,829,615 in 1928. Net earnings increased from $13,138,504 to $14,423,694. The balance of the net earnings after interest charges and depreciation amounted to 1.83 times the dividend requirements on the preferred shares (proposed to be outstanding (including this issue).

Bulls Find Spokesmen in Congress; Fallacy Recurs

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

ECONOMIC fallacies die slowly, and appear to be reborn when conditions pinch large groups of individuals.

The flat money agitation, wherever by the Legislature would arbitrarily attach value to currency irrespective of its gold cover, is in abeyance, but Representative Loring Black of New York has raised the question of "fiat" stock prices. With security buying now almost a general activity as votes, it is not surprising that spokesmen for the eternally bullish and gullible should rise up in the halls of Congress.

Ascribing the sharp setback in speculative security prices in the final two sessions of last week to the cautionary statement issued by the Federal Reserve Board, Representative Black has introduced a resolution instructing the House Committee on Banking and Currency to inquire "as to the necessity of the Federal Reserve Board from using its powers artificially to raise or lower the market in securities."

There is an implication that public welfare required a new bull cycle even though only stocks are quoted at nearly 20 times their current earning power. The spirit behind the resolution is that those who fail to join in the chorus and whoop it up for the stock market bulls are enemies of the people.

Since the Black resolution is in part, "When the board was given its tremendous power over the credit system, it was hoped that it would afford facilities for a normal flow of money to reinforce the course of trade. It was not anticipated that it would so use its credit power as to accelerate or depress [illegible] which [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] trade [illegible]."

This recent warning has caused a great loss to investors in the security market.

"To my mind this recent warning was an unprecedented example of Government intrusion into the conduct of American business and Congress should take steps to prevent its recurrence."

If intrusion is to be outlawed, then bullish sentiment should be frowned on also. For years economic statements from the Treasury and the White House helped to whet the buying appetite. For years, too, the Federal Reserve System has intruded, frequently on the side of bullishness, through lowering the rediscount rate to 3½ per cent in the midsummer of 1927 and through frequent large scale purchases in the open market of Government securities, which lended to make credit conditions easier and bull speculation more attractive. But when the Federal Reserve asks the public to pull in the credit belt, the cry of intrusion is raised.

Irrespective of the wisdom of last week's warning issued by the Federal Reserve, like any central bank, is in the nature of things necessarily always stepping on some one's toes, for it is perpetually tending to make money cheaper or dearer and thus contributing to greater or lesser prosperity.

Representative Louis T. McFadden, chairman of the House committee on banking and currency, who is himself a national banker, puts a strict construction on the Federal Reserve Act, and opposes activities on the part of the system which are not specifically authorized by [illegible].

[illegible] British economist was recently asked what the Federal Reserve Board could do about the entered speculation in stocks. He replied that it was just as pertinent to ask what the Federal Reserve [illegible] do to pull off mosquitoes [illegible] and [illegible] in the statement pointed out, "Central bankers cannot escape the responsibility for the Federal Reserve Board," the statement points out, "because [illegible] [illegible] as an arbiter of sovereign credit relations [illegible]."

[illegible] of publicity by the Reserve [illegible] a weapon is not the only [illegible] [illegible] mild warnings last year, and a series of strong admonitions, against excessive speculation during the inflation of 1919 [illegible].

Senator Thomas J. Heflin of Alabama, also strongly asserts that the ban to [illegible] speculation and the lack of restraint through the issue of [illegible] examples of the Federal Reserve [illegible] for this view. His optimism According to the Heflin resolution, the Reserve Board is called upon [illegible] [illegible] suggestions that it feels would be helpful in securing legislation and necessary to correct the evil complained of, and [illegible] [illegible] mate and harmful speculation."

Behind such a resolution is a motion that somehow Congress can set up machinery for price-fixing which would be more logical than the present hit-or-miss arrangements. Past experiments in public price-fixing have been far from reassuring.

HOW BIG GAINS ESCAPE FROM INVESTORS

Escaped profits are probably ten fold actual profits to the average investor in an active speculative market, according to Jesse Wright, president of the Business Economics Digest.

"Escaped profits are those lost through an over-anxiety to take profit," Mr. Wright explained. "Of course these profits are not actually lost but they escape the average investor and accrue to the professional speculator and the wise and patient investor.

"In an active market the average investor is too great a hurry to take 5, 10, or 15 point profits in an issue whose potentialities hold the prospect for an increase of hundreds of points over the long pull.

"Inability to wait for the long pull results in the escape of profits that most cases the investor who has escaped profits has attempted to gauge the short swings in the market. Such an investor sells a good long pull security and buys a small profit, planning to buy the security back on a decline. If the decline comes the tendency to wait until the decline strikes bottom is so strong that before the investor gets into the market to repurchase the stock it has risen well above the figure at which he sold. No one likes to buy stocks back at a higher price than that at which they previously sold them, and as a result the investor loses his position and the stock goes on making new highs while the investor's escaped profits [illegible].

"While the great majority of escaped profits are always written down against the investor, investors during recent years in the market it is a fact that some pool operators became over-anxious to take their profits and sold their holdings only to see them continue to soar.

"The weight of opinion among competent authorities at present is that a strictly long pull attitude should be maintained toward stock purchases, and if this opinion be correct that a month or the next few months will see thousands of investors counting escaped profits, while the more astute operators will sit back and await the long pull profits."

New Haven Road Can Claim Being Oldest in America

NEW YORK, New Haven & Hartford Railroad can justly claim to being the oldest in America, this usually given to the Baltimore & Ohio. Beacon Hill legislators displayed considerable opposition to allowing a charter for the first railroad. These facts are brought out by a study of Quincy, made in Industry, official publication of Associated Industries of Massachusetts.

When Gridley Bryant approached the Great and General Court for a charter for the Granite Railway the encountered objections of the most strenuous nature, says Industry. For quite a period of time the project was in jeopardy. Whoever heard of a railway? inquired some of the members of the House. What practical use will it be? How can it be operated, and what will be its effect, if successful, on the available supply of granite? were some of the queries submitted by the legislative objectors.

By a scant majority the Legislature [illegible] a charter and work [illegible] on the railway in April 1826, and the last rail was spiked on October 7 following, on which day the first train of cars passed over the entire four miles of construction.

It was an eventful occasion for Quincy when this the first railway in America was opened. It cost [illegible] and led from the Bunker Hill Quarry via an inclined plane by which an 84-foot vertical fall was accomplished in 315 feet, of gradual descent to tidewater on the Neponset river. Stone "sleepers" or ties, placed eight feet apart, supported the original wooden rails of pine, covered with oak tops, which later were superseded by Stone rails, and for more than 40 years the original railway was operated by horse power.

Bryant had no precedents upon which to work, yet he successfully planned all the necessary features. The [illegible] derricks, turntable and the movable trucks for the cars were a feature of the road built. He failed to protect his inventions by patents, and died a comparatively poor man.

Over the rails of this pioneer and primitive railway were carried all the blocks of granite that [illegible] the Bunker Hill monument and over it also for many decades afterward many miles that [illegible] Quincy granite. Quincy can lay claim to being the oldest railroad in the United States.

[illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] Granite Railway Co. [illegible] purchased the right of way and the assets of the Granite Railway Co. In time, thus making it possible to write into American history the fact that its successor, the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway Co., can lay claim to being the oldest railroad in the United States.

With the completion of the Granite Railway, Quincy granite found its rightful place in the industrial [illegible] Being first in quarry to tide water, the original railway rendered it possible to successfully transport the granite blocks and columns that entered into the construction of public and private buildings all over New England.

Finally a new school of architecture appeared upon the horizon, which, deciding that Quincy granite was so hard and cold in appearance and so durable in its component parts that it was wont to outlive its usefulness, the quarries of the city turned to a new field for distribution and, today three-fourths of all that is quarried finds a location in the cities of the dead, where the enduring qualities of the world-famous Quincy deposits of syenite tell their silent stories of the advent and the passing of man.

Consider Now the Added Convenience

New evening rates for out-of-town telephone calls by number do more than save you money. They add convenience and efficiency to your service.

Formerly day rates applied until 8:30 P. M. Evening rates now begin at 7:30 P. M. and continue until 8:30 P. M.

This hour-and-a-half in the early evening means much at both ends of your telephone line. It's a leisure hour.

In most households the evening meal is over, the evening's engagements still ahead. It's a convenient time to make social telephone calls. And you're likely to find the people you call at home.

Evening rates are substantially lower than day rates; but there are two things to remember. They apply only to station-to-station calls, best made by number. And they do not apply at short distances where the day rate is 35 cents or less.

Even at full day rates we have always had a considerable volume of out-of-town calls during the early evening. We are prepared to handle efficiently the increased business sure to come as the economy and convenience of this new evening service become better known.

NEW QUESTIONS IN GREAT FLAG CONTEST TOMORROW

Watch Tongue For Signs of Illness

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your digestive and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your entire digestive system—and it is a fact that 90 per cent of all illness start with stomach and bowel trouble.

A white or yellow coating on the tongue usually means that the digestive organs are out of order. Bad breath, sick headache, biliousness, nervousness, sleeplessness, and many other troubles usually start with stomach and bowel trouble.

It is therefore urged that the boys and girls who are interested in this contest make part of their duties to see that their teachers and heads of local or school organizations are informed of the rules governing the contest.

These rules:

1 The Contest is open to every boy and girl in the United States.

2 Boys will compete only against boys, and girls only against girls, each receiving identical awards.

On this date in 1876, Alexander Graham Bell was granted his first patent on the telephone. urging someone to conduct a Flag Contest in their community.

TO AWARD MEDALS

7 As many Flag Contests as there are schools or organizations in a city or community that wishes to conduct them may be held, but no boy or girl may enter more than one Contest.

8 Winners in School and Organization Contests will be awarded the "Old Glory Medal" of the United States Flag Association and membership in the Order of the Flag, the Legion of Honor of the United States Flag Association, of which Lindbergh was the first member. Their papers will be sent to the offices of the sponsoring Hearst newspaper in their territory to be judged by a jury of prominent men and women.

9 The boy and girl chosen by the Regional Juries of Award as Regional Flag Champions will be given a free trip to Washington and other patriotic shrines and the Cross of Honor of the United States Flag Association. Their papers will be judged in Washington by a National Jury of Award and the three boys and the three girls receiving the highest marks will recite their essays in a competition to determine the National Flag Champion.

10 The National Flag Champions will be given a free trip around the world, accompanied by a woman of national prominence, a complete traveling wardrobe, including trunks and hand luggage, and $250 in spending money.

11 Complete rules and regulations governing the Flag Contest will be sent to the heads of schools and organizations upon receipt of an application to conduct a contest.

"NOT DIFFICULT"

From these simple rules, it will be seen that the Flag Contest presents no difficulties to any boy and girl between the prescribed age limits who wishes to enter the Contest.

Already the national officers of most of the patriotic organizations in the United States have given their hearty endorsement to the plan, as have prominent educators, both from colleges and in charge of public schools.

Particulars has it been pointed out that while the major awards in themselves provide a liberal education, the greatest value of the Flag Contest lies in the educational nature of the Contest itself.

In areas where no contest unit has yet been organized, boys and girls interested are requested to show this publicity to their school authorities or to some of the heads of local patriotic or civic organizations, with the request that person get under way a local contest. It is not too late to organize.

The Flag Contest Editor is prepared to furnish full information and individual who may wish to sponsor one of the local contests. A complete outfit of necessary literature, instructions, blank forms, etc., has been prepared and this will be sent gratis to any teacher or other responsible individual who wishes to get the competition under way in his or her home neighborhood or city.

Applications for authority to conduct such contests have been pouring in on the Flag Contest Editors of the Hearst newspapers from all sections of the country since the initial announcement of the competition on February 3.

Therefore, if a contest unit has not already been organized in your vicinity have some interested person take the matter up with the Flag Contest Editor, Boston Evening American, and the necessary supplies will be forwarded at once.

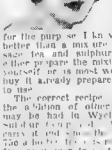
What Shall I Do for Gray Hair?

By ALICE STRAWN



I am often asked for a good way to restore gray, faded or streaked hair. While there are many people who for the purpose know better than a mixture of good old sage tea and sulphur. You can either prepare the mixture at home yourself or as most women prefer, buy it already prepared and ready to use.

The correct recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, may be had in Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur Compound. All druggists carry it and since the trouble is only too common, it is really no need for any woman to be troubled with gray hair. By preparing it herself, you would be surprised if you knew the number of men and women who employ Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur because its use is undetectable.

You simply moisten a comb or a soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, one small strand at a time. By morning the gray disappears and another application or two gives your hair beautifully and evenly restored to its full original color. There is no question but that fashionable women. I advise any woman — or man — whose hair is turning gray to try Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur.

WHO MAKES YOUR FIRE INSURANCE RATE?

Trained experts compute it; but property owners—individually and collectively—create the conditions which determine the cost of their fire insurance.

Several major factors enter into the determination of fire insurance rates, such as structure, occupancy, the quality of private and public fire protection, exposure from other property, general loss experience.

The agent who writes your insurance—or your broker—or you, yourself—can obtain an itemized explanation of how your insurance rate is computed. There is nothing secret about it.

The Stock Fire Insurance Companies solicit your interest, and offer free of charge the advice of rate-making bureaus to assist in eliminating hazards or correcting defects which may result in lowering your rate.

Do not attempt unsound fire prevention measures, but seek the advice of the accredited experts of rating bureaus who are anxious to tell you the proper way to make improvements.

Insurance companies generally prefer risks eligible to a low rate to those which carry higher ones. A low rate indicates better conditions, better maintenance and less chance of fire.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters does not make rates and has nothing to do with rate making. As a bureau of standards it does supply rate makers with units for measuring the comparative strength and usefulness of materials and devices.

Owners of property in Massachusetts may obtain this service from the New England Fire Insurance Exchange for all parts of the state outside of Boston or from the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters for Boston only. Stribling Plan of Battle for Miami Go Complete

W. L. Stuthing Jr.

MY battle plans for Jack Sharkey already are complete.

The first thing I will do as the bell rings, is to take note of the position of the topmost part of his tights. If they are any nearer than six inches to his chin I may protest to the referee and ask that some lowering device be brought into the ring so that the tights can be dropped back to the legal position.

After this situation is adjusted, I'll take a few smacks at him, meet him glare for glare, and then poke him in the neck with the expectation that he will promptly turn to the referee and claim a few fouls against me.

As soon as Sharkey turns I'm going to let a few fly for his chin. It won't be my fault if he has left the roadway to the chin wide open. It is his business to keep covered even when protesting that a jolt on the Adam's Apple is not a refined, but very low type of punch.

By that time I expect the fight really to begin.

LEAVING the joshing of Sharkey aside, I'll give him credit for being a fellow who, when hurt or crowded and forced into a desperate spot, will fight back.

That's what I want—a fight.

This is one battle I do not care to win on points. Nothing but a knockout will satisfy me. The customers like action—and slugging. I'm making them the promise now that I'll do my part to satisfy them. If Sharkey is in the same mood—if he is willing that victory should go to the man who can take the most and give the hardest—then it will be a FIGHT.

There never was a time since I grew into the light heavy class that I didn't think I could "take" Sharkey. Two years ago when I notched around 172-175 and Sharkey was at his peak, I would have bet on my self against him.

The conditions now increase my confidence. I have gained more experience and weight—and added a PUNCH. I think I am a far better ringman today than at any time in my career.

ON the other hand, it seems to me that Sharkey has slipped. He has not shown a crumpling wallop in his most recent fights; his marksmanship wasn't so good, nor do I think he is as fast. He may be a little better against me, and I expect he will. I don't want my prospect to fancy me to be punching soft spots, but I don't see why he should be more talk about a "solid wall of a has been."

So I am hoping that Sharkey is in top condition with the bell, and that he will FIGHT it out to a finish with CLENCHED FISTS—not with appeals to the referee, or savage glares or fierce gestures and unchanning language.

Miami War Referee Yet Undecided

By JACK CONWAY

Miami, Fla., Feb. 14—The wrangle over the referee for the Sharkey-Stribling bout was today the chief topic of interest here in the Battle of Miami.

Jack Dempsey has called another meeting of Johnny Buckley, Pa Stribling and the athletic committee of the Miami Post of the American Legion for tomorrow at which an effort will be made to agree upon the third man in the ring.

If Buckley, Pa Stribling and Dempsey cannot come to terms on the question of referee, the Massachusetts Boxing Commission will be asked to name the referee. In the event the Massachusetts commission should fail to act Dempsey would be the one to name the referee.

Jack Conway

Buckley safeguarded against all possible contingencies in regard to the referee for the fight at the time the articles of agreement were drawn up. Buckley today showed this writer his contract with the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

It contained the following provision on the question of the referee:

"It is also agreed that the referee for the contest shall be mutually agreed upon by the parties to this agreement. The final selection of the official shall be made one week before the contest.

"In the event the parties are unable to agree on the official, it is agreed that the Massachusetts Boxing Commission shall name the referee.

"If the said Massachusetts Boxing Commission refuses or neglects to name said official within seven days of the contest, then Jack Dempsey shall designate the referee."

Dempsey declared today he would like to see Pa Stribling and Buckley come to an agreement on the question of the referee. He said that in the event they were unable to do so by Friday noon that he would immediately wire the Massachusetts commission and ask them to select the third man in the ring.

SHARKEY'S CONTRACT O. K.

Dempsey asserted Sharkey's contract was drawn first and that when Stribling's contract was drawn he was made to agree to a provision allowing the Massachusetts commission to pick the referee in the event of a dispute on the matter.

Dempsey, Buckley and Pa Stribling nominated about every referee in the country for consideration.

SHARKEY GOLFS

Sharkey was out on the road bright and early today. He was to follow his road work with a golf match in which he will be teamed with the Boston newspaperman in a match against the New York scribes. Jack was also to work out at the Miami Kennel Club today.

The Boston heavyweight improved those who saw him work out. He boxed a round each with Paul Hoffman, Pat McCarthy and Johnny Grosso. He did six rounds of work on the large and small bags.

Stribling worked four rounds with sparring partners and then called it a day. The Georgian is already down pretty fine and will lay off today.

The sale for the fight keeps going along merrily. Its financial success is absolute.

SAILOR IN RING WITH O'KELLY

Schaaf Attempts Iron Man Stunt in Garden Go With O'Kelly

Facing an iron-man stunt which would be desired by few heavyweights in the fistic game today, Ernie Schaaf, in his second appearance in the ring within a week, faces Con O'Kelly, in the feature at the Boston Garden tomorrow night.

Ellie Mack, has practically promised the winner of tomorrow night's fight between Schaaf and O'Kelly a crack at the winner of the approaching contest in this city between Jimmy Maloney of South Boston and Tom Heeney of New Zealand.

WANTS BATTLE

And Schaaf confirms this report and is all set to force his way into the same ring with O'Kelly a year, which it will be remembered that Max Schmeling refused.

O'Kelly arrived in the Hub with the prediction that he would stop Schaaf within a few rounds. O'Kelly admits that he has learned considerable about the American fistic art in his two fights with Maloney and for this reason he expects but little trouble with Schaaf tomorrow night.

The Irish title holder stepped through a brisk workout at Jim Toland's gym, Schaaf went through a light workout.

Keen interest is being shown in the preliminary card tomorrow night. The Garden prelims are acquiring a fine reputation.

MANOLIAN FIGHTS

George Manolian of Dorchester returns to the ring tomorrow to meet a hard hitter in the person in Tiger Thomas of Williamsport, Pa. Thomas is a protege of George Godfrey, who predicts that he will win the middleweight championship one of these days.

Jack Gross, Philadelphia heavyweight, is expected to arrive in the Hub today for his eight-round bout with Jack Townsend of New York.

In a six-rounder, Phil Flanagan of Malden and Joe Taveleri of Cambridge, hitter local rivals, will clash in a return match.

Four four-rounders also are carded for tomorrow night. Frank Malcewicz, brother of the popular wrestler, meets Roy Silliker of Somerville, and Vonka Yelesko, heavyweight champion of Greece, meets Joe Stockman of Dorchester.

Tommy Smoot of South Boston takes on Johnny Casper of New York and Johnny Scully, South Boston, faces Al Delsalco of the North End.

EAGLE SIX IN WAR WITH PENN

Boston Colleges hockey team will play its second game of the week tomorrow night, meeting the University of Pennsylvania sextet on the surface of the Arena.

Pennsylvania is nearing the completion of its first year of hockey and hasn't had much success. Penn has been battling the best college teams in the East and almost continually whitewashed by scores ranging anywhere from 5 to 10 to 0.

B. C. will start the same lineup that faced B. U. with Ed Sidney and Captain Art Morrissey on defense, Pete Stanford at center, and Johnny Groden and Perley Payson on the wings.

Jumps Contract

Harry Chatton, captain of Charley Stoneham's New York soccer Nationals since Bob Miller left that organization to go into outlaw soccer several months ago, jumped his contract yesterday to play with the New York Giants, representatives of the soccer Giants announced.

B. U. SWIMMERS FACE BROWN

Coach Jack Wallace of the Boston University swimming team will lead a squad of nine natators to Providence tomorrow night where the Pioneers engage in a dual meet with Brown. On Saturday the Pioneers travel to Brunswick, Me., where they will compete against the Bowdoin swimmers.

The Pioneers are likely to be outclassed when they meet the strong Brown team, but Coach Wallace has high hopes of his charges coming through against Bowdoin Saturday night.

Swimming is not a popular sport at Boston University and as a result few men turn out for the team. Every year there are former high school stars who refuse to come out for the team, but in spite of these handicaps Wallace manages to develop a team which earns the respect of its opponents.

Pioneer entries in the next two meets will be: Capt. Carnie, in the 50 and 100-yard swims and the relay; Knowles, in the 50 and relay; Hudson, in the 100 and relay; Steinmetz, in the back stroke; Sweetzer and Stacey, in the breast stroke; Smith and Kellogg in the dive, and Houston, in the 440.

Crimson Six Loses Captain Tudor

By TED LYNCH

Harvard hockey team received the toughest blow of its puck season today when the Crimson lost Capt. Johnny Tudor for a period of two weeks.

This robs Harvard of the use of its captain in the Dartmouth game here on Saturday and probably in the Tech game two weeks hence.

Tudor banged his right shoulder against the Arena boards in the A. A. game on Tuesday and the X-ray disclosed that the plucky Crimson captain had a badly wrenched shoulder.

Doctor Gus Thorndike had the ailing member in a sling this morning and it seemed doubtful if the Harvard leader would play any more hockey this season.

The sudden loss of Tudor practically robs Harvard of any chance of cashing in on the intercollegiate championship.

It places Harvard with its back against the wall in its coming game with Dartmouth here on Saturday and rates the Crimson as a decided underdog against Yale.

The newest Harvard misfortune caps a hockey season full of hard luck.

At the time it was felt that Tudor would be ready on Saturday but the X-ray this morning sent all hopes into the open air.

Hal Stanley of Brookline, the former defense man, will probably get the call on left wing in place of the injured Crimson leader.

Stanley has been alternating all season between forward and defense and will start the game under a severe handicap. Stanley will team up with Elliot Putnam at center and Bobby Giddens at right wing.

Harvard gets its final practice today at the Garden. Stubbs will start in a new line at that time and will use an alternate flank of Lawrence Hitchcock and Cross.

Sam Batchelder and the Biggs twins will be on the defense and Tubby Jackson in goal.

Ice-conniers from all parts of the state form parties to attend this festival midwinter event and the public is planning an unprecedented turnout for the all-star program of events.

The final part of the program is the hockey game between the two sextets which will decide the winner of the title championship. The events of the amateur hockey league this season have been of the keenest competition and the two clubs of late with bitterness and fierce play has been evident in each game.

Congressman Frisby Found on Fire Escape

Miss Abercrombie looking over her bound volumes of the Rogues' Gallery—in an attempt to identify Peeping Tom.

WASHINGTON—Scandal, which threatened to dash Congressman Frisby against the rocks of infamy, almost disrupted his fearless attempt to establish a non-stop walking record last night.

About 9:30 p. m. the police received a phone call from Miss Gertie Abercrombie, who declared that a Peeping Tom was scratching her screen. Police hurried to her apartment, on the top floor of the Schemoth Building, and there found Congressman Frisby leisurely sauntering up and down the fire escape.

Confronted by the woman, Frisby denied that he had ever met her socially. Asked to identify Frisby, Miss Abercrombie asked for permission to speak to him privately. Fifteen minutes later she announced that Frisby was not the man. The Congressman was released with a warning not to stop walking.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

Grandmother, I think it's time we were going home.

BAER FACTS

WELL, the Senate gave us that delayed gift of 15 cruisers, just when our Christmas stockings had a big hole in the toe.

We need that hatching of 15 ugly ducklings. We don't know what for, but we need 'em.

The measure went through the Senate and House on a non-stop flight right to President Coolidge, who announced his intention of slapping his signature on it in the good, old hearty Vermont manner.

This has been an economical administration. When Cal wrote his presidential message of 15,000 words he claims that he dipped his pen in the ink only once.

Now that the fight for the 15 business gondolas is won, the bigger fight is on.

Wait until the launching committee tries to get an appropriation for 15 bottles of champagne.

Mr. Coolidge winds up his administration in a blaze of affirmatives just when we were beginning to think that we would have to change that travel slogan to: "Join the Navy and See a Veto."

Of course, Cal's slight hesitancy about those 15 cruisers was due to a desire to spare Hoover's president-electro feelings.

Cal didn't want it to look as if he didn't need 'em, but Herbie did.

We have had peace during the last two administrations. That is because Europe recognized the superior Coolidge bookkeeping.

Europe knew that it couldn't beat Cal on land, on sea—or to the bank.

You know where we got the money to build the cruisers, don't you?

That's the money we saved by not building cruisers.

Those 15 trouble-shooters raise our good-will ambassadors to the dignity of railroad watchmen. Any time anybody wants a collision we will be able to furnish the grade-crossing.

Now, when we sing the "Army and Navy Forever," we mean them both.

That ain't all. Preparations for the future are simmering sweetly in all departments. The catchword is cruisers. If we sell the Leviathan it is only because it is too comfortable.

The army went on a long practice hike of marking time last week. The boys picked them up and laid them down in perfect tempo. They didn't gain any ground. But they didn't lose any.

And in time of peace prepare for war, as the War Department said when it ordered the red stripes to be sewed back again on the marines' trousers.

Now you know that we are prepared for the fiercest kind of news reels.

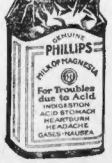
Acid Stomach



Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids, 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

STOP BEING A "LAXATIVE ADDICT"

It isn't wise—it isn't necessary—to be a slave to habit-forming laxatives. This continued dosing of the bowels to relieve constipation can mean a lifetime of troubles—unless you take the step now to stop it.

Stop it by taking the remedy that tends to do away with all dosing.—Thalax the "habit-less" laxative. Take a tablet or two before going to bed. In the morning there will be no distress, no griping. Instead, the bowels will move easily, naturally. Continue Thalax at intervals, when you need it, and you'll experience always the same prompt, easy results. But you'll find these intervals growing longer and longer, until you'll need a laxative only very rarely.

Why? Because Thalax has a strengthening, toning effect on the bowel muscles, gradually bringing back their natural easy action, making medicine entirely unnecessary.

It's worth the trying, at least, isn't it? Ask for Thalax at any good drug store. Bottle of 30 tablets, 35 cents. Should your druggist not have it on hand, we will be glad to supply you direct. R. A. Ogden Company, Boston, Mass.

HEADACHE

NEVER wait to see if a headache will "wear off." Why suffer when there's Bayer Aspirin? The millions of men and women who use it in increasing quantities every year prove that it does relieve such pain. The medical profession pronounces it without effect on the heart, so use it as often as it can spare you any pain. Every druggist always has genuine Bayer Aspirin for the prompt relief of a headache, colds, neuralgia, lumbago, etc. And Bayer Aspirin is always the best thing one could take.

ITON URGES NAL ACROSS NICARAGUA

Angeles, Feb. 14—American world shipping needs a route across Nicaragua to handle the traffic that soon will be too great for the Panama Canal, Sir Henry Japp, noted British visitor, told members of the Los Angeles Engineers' Club.

Recent revival of the proposal to build a tunnel under the English Channel between France and Great Britain caused Sir Henry a name to be prominently mentioned as the possible constructor. His achievements include construction of the Pennsylvania railroad's tunnel beneath the Hudson river at New York.

"From the present travel through the cut, a gross profit of 10% annually is realized on the original cost. At the present rate of increased travel, it will soon be necessary to construct another and larger canal, or some of the traffic will be compelled to take a different route," he said.

"Observations by many eminent engineers show that the logical place for such a canal would be at Nicaragua, and the building of such a cut should be done before a crisis arises and America and Great Britain find themselves handicapped by the lack of it."

FORD 'SORE' ON MONEY, BUT HE MAKES IT

Hoover administration, Mr. Ford replied:

"Prosperity is a state of mind. If the people put their thoughts to work and strive for better things we need have no worry for the future."

"What is your reaction to the heavy speculation by people all over the country in the New York Stock Market?"

"I don't know a thing about it," he answered. "I never looked at a stock quotation in my life."

"Is there any danger of automobile manufacturers reaching a saturation point in the sale of cars in this country?"

"That depends upon the job they do," replied Ford. "If they produce the right kind of cars at the right prices there always will be a market for them."

"How about the future of aviation?"

"That is transportation, too," he replied. Aviation has a splendid future."

"When will the general public be riding around in planes as a common, everyday proposition?"

SHOULD SPEND WELL

"When planes are made large enough. That is, when they manufacture motors with more power and less weight, that will be suitable for huge planes capable of carrying many passengers."

"It is better for men if they do not have to work too long each week. Not only do they have an opportunity to give their hands and their minds a rest, but they get a chance to use up the products they make. What is the use of making things, such as automobiles, for instance, if the people do not have a chance to use them?"

"Are the working men of today saving too much, or spending too much?"

"The only way to do to to spend —that is, to spend within your means," he replied. "We save to spend, do we not?"

Legion Post Hears N. H. Senate Clerk

The "sidelights" of the United States Senate were told today by Norris Cotton, clerk of the New Hampshire State Senate at a luncheon of the Crosscup-Dalton Post, American Legion, at the Hotel Bellevue. Because of Cotton's intimacy and friendship with Sen. Moses the meeting drew an unusually large crowd. Cotton at 21 was a member of the New Hampshire Legislature and president of the Republican state convention in 1924. He was formerly secretary to Sen. Moses in Washington.

Best Things Missed Because of Nature

By LOUISE RICE
Noted Graphologists

LOOKING on my life, past and present, I feel that I have missed the best things that make for happiness and content. I have always persuaded myself that for fear of hurting others I have let opportunities to better myself go by, but as I view it all I am wondering if it has not been because I lacked courage to face life.

"WONDERING," Hyde Park.

Allow me to give three cheers, "Wondering!" If you have come to face that fact, you are at last turned around and going in the right direction!

TOO SENSITIVE

Many of your difficulties, however, have really been caused by your sensitiveness and by your lack of aggressiveness. You are more than usually loving and gentle and the world, alas, is not. It takes a long time for people of your temperament to make the adjustment which allows them to be shrewd and self-protective and yet to retain a good deal of that which is their peculiar virtue.

Opportunities to be go by but as I am wondering if it has Needed Courage to face life to

You are a person of strong and positive likes and dislikes, for all of your mildness; have an interesting and piquant personality and are are rather versatile. Take all this and use it. Find a place in the world where such qualities as these are prized and rewarded.

I do not believe that it is ever necessary to be mean or unkind to anybody, but it is a great mistake to spare those who are themselves mean and unkind. No better discipline was ever handed such people than to give them a dose of their own medicine.

You have natural wit. Use it. You have a mind which is not at all ordinary. Use it. Your will power is only fair. Develop it. You have real personal charm. Don't be afraid to trust this and to use it. The world loves charm and rewards it. Do this, all of it, and some of your problems will disappear.

HOW TO DO IT

The letter which is partially or wholly made of loops which are so compressed that it is hard to see that it is a looped letter, expresses the opposite from the type which is inflated.

These squeezed loop letters have the effect of a closed and shuttered window to the eye of the graphologist. They show the instinct to hide all that is felt and to pull the veil of secrecy over everything which is at all emotional.

Late years

These are the people concerning whose friendship and love you have to make a good guess. You will never really know. Such people speak what is actually in their hearts with the greatest effort.

The squeezed loop shows the instinct to conserve, too. These are the people who make money by saving it. The inflated loop people have to make enough money so that they do not have to save!

In dealing with the people with the loops now under consideration it is well to remember that they "have to be shown." You will not sweep them off their feet by the force of any enthusiasm or eloquence.

NOTE; Send sample of your handwriting to Miss Louise Rice, noted graphologist, for analysis. Write your name and complete address on unruled paper, in ink or pencil. To cover clerical costs enclose 10c in silver or stamps. Also enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The individual analysis will be returned to you within a period of one or two weeks. Letters will not be published if sender so requests. Miss Rice has a number of letters which she cannot answer because of wrong or inadequate addresses.

WONDERFUL NEW REMEDY FOR RHEUMATIC ACHES AND PAINS

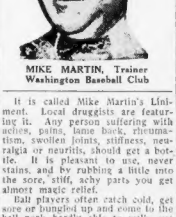
Liniment They Use On Big League Ball Players Like Herb Pennock

STOPS ACHES, PAINS STIFFNESS QUICKLY

Big league baseball stars like Herb Pennock, Lee Meadows, Ray Kremer, Walter Johnson, Bucky Harris, Ty Cobb, George Sisler, Coveleski and others cannot afford to be laid up with aches, pains, swollen joints or stiffness a single day, so they must use the best remedy money can buy.

The liniment they use out at the ball park works like lightning and in a jiffy relieves aches, pains, stiffness or swollen joints due to small rheumatic trouble, neuritis, neuralgia, etc. A thousand times each baseball season this wonderful liniment does its work in big leagues, professional and amateur baseball circles, and yet this liniment they use is so mild it would not harm a baby's skin and never blisters no matter how much you rub it in or bandage it up.

The liniment is named after the famous trainer, Mike Martin, the man who for years was trainer of the New York "Yankees," Cincinnati "Reds" Columbia University, etc., and who now is trainer of Washington American League Baseball Club.



MIKE MARTIN, Trainer Washington Baseball Club

It is called Mike Martin's Liniment. Local druggists are featuring it. Any person suffering with aches, pains, lame backs, rheumatism, swollen joints, stiffness, neuralgia or neuritis, should get a bottle. It is pleasant to use, never stains, and by rubbing a little into the sore, stiff, achy parts you get almost magic relief.

Ball players often get catch cold, get sore or bungled up and come to the ball park hardly able to walk, yet out they come from a good rub with Mike Martin's Liniment, as lively, full of pep and ginger, as anybody could wish. Watch them scamper and prance in rain or shine. You'd never dream they ever had an ache or pain in their lives. Mike Martin, by making this liniment available to the general public in drug stores, is doing a great thing for those who suffer. If reader lives out of town and druggist hasn't it, write Mike Martin, Ball Club, Washington, D. C., and he will send a large size bottle with full directions, parcel post, for $1.00. All good druggists sell smaller trial size bottles for a few cents.

BIG HIT SCORED BY LENOX CHEF

Benedetto Catinella, for 20 years chef of the Hotel Lenox, kept the Martha Lee School of Practical Cookery keenly interested in a thrush-ier demonstration of Lenox specialties yesterday afternoon.

With incredible dispatch, Chef Catinella prepared a Crown Roast of Lamb with fresh vegetables, Veal Chop Maroon, Stuffed Lobster, and a mammoth Welsh Rarebit, the recipes for which will be found on the magazine page of this paper next Saturday.

Chef Catinella's unfailing good nature and running fire of comments on his cookery made his lessons toddletter days in the Martha Lee Kitchen.

Please take this as your invitation to be with us next Wednesday, when Alfred Russen, pastry chef of the Ritz Carlton Hotel, will take charge of the class.

Paris, Feb. 14 (AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing is still keeping indoors, although apparently chafing at the confinement. His physician insisted that he remain in the hotel at least until the end of the week to guard against a relapse following a slight attack of grippe.

RADIO BRINGS SALMON TO ITS OWN

By FRED TOYE
Radio Editor

THE TURBULENT waves of the Pacific will lap New England's rock-bound shores tonight when the Coward Comfort Hour ether sea-foam symphonic eulogies of the pink-tinted tinned fish delicacy of the Columbia River coast. While the valiant aid of a 35-piece band bearing the ambitious title of American Philharmonic Orchestra of the fish-canning industry will glorify the leaping ichthyopoeda, which has contributed so much to the upbringing of the race. For thirty minutes, by aid of classic tunes and dulcet strains, the period between 10:30 to 11 o'clock, the audiences of WNAC and countless other fish lovers within the radius of length and breadth of the land will be told the romantic tale of the poor fish who's only to arrive early in youth within the close confines of a tin box, and ends his career as piece de resistance on a boarding house table.

FINLESS SPLENDOR

THERE HAVE BEEN more romantic fish than the salmon. Romantic not only in the legends that have glorified the useless and ugly dolphin. Real estate masters of poise have gone down the street of the tuna of the barracuda, as Florida or California has paid their wages of the moment. Our Mississippi sets cod has long hung in glory on Beacon Hill and had his year of finless splendor on half a million motor car plates. The trout, the pompano, the devil-fish and the shark have more than fame in word and song. The sturgeon arrives at almost regal dignity for the sacrifice of what? Caviar—just little sturgeons which turn up in movie routs in the form of lavish caviar. But the wolf-sacrificing salmon—the leaping, agile, graceful monarch of the ice-cold rivers of the North—the finest-fleshed, sturdy and beautiful, and most American of fishes, has been doomed to a grossly career of mere utility. Oh for the spirit of the French who know how to glorify and to petition the God which they eat. Please pass the pork chops.

BELLE BAKER IS SIGNED TO STAR IN THREE FILMS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Copyright, 1929, by (Universal Service)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14—It's very ambitious and laudable desire on the part of E. Asher and Edward Small to want to make Belle Baker a female Al Jolson. And perhaps not an impossible feat either for Miss Baker is one of the best known vaudeville entertainers in the country, a singer of Yiddish songs and an actress who knows how to give emotional expression to the songs of her race.

Her very first picture, which incidentally will be produced in the East, is the story of Miss Baker's life. It will tell something of her early struggles up to the time she was discovered by Bertha Kalich and her father became bold on the legitimate stage and in vaudeville.

Miss Baker will make three pictures in all for Asher and Small, two of them to be produced here in Hollywood and, of course, with Jolson's hope that Miss Baker will take a leaf out of Fannie Brice's book and not try to do the whole thing herself. Sophie Tucker, I hear whispered, has insisted that each one in her picture be given a chance but on different lines all not be a solo performance.

WITH the right material and Fannie Brice's pep and personality there is no reason she cannot put over a talkie in great time. Apparently Joseph Schenck thinks she can, for I just hear that his signed to make talkies for United Artists, and you know Joseph Schenck isn't signing them unless he thinks they will go. When Billy Rose's songs Fannie ought to make a picture that will be as good we will have a "Jazz Singer."

WALLACE McDONALD has woken up after slumbering peacefully all these years and forgetting that he has a voice he has come out of his Rip Van Winkle trance to find that talkies want young men with voices. His first screen song will be in "The Middle Watch," where he plays the lead in Joe E. Brown's next picture for Tiffany-Stahl. Imagine Wallace's surprise when he learned that of the rest of these stars who parked their voices on top of the piano to find that those same voices are of more importance than their faces.

IF you think there is no money in handling the business affairs of our biz stars just listen to this little tale of E. Edington, who is Pickford adviser and administrator and what have you for John Gilbert, Greta Garbo, Nils Asther and Mervyn LeRoy. Robert Leonard and other motion picture folk, has made sufficient money to retire from the game immediately for Honolulu and from there will go to Italy where his wife, Ida May Edington, is studying grand opera. After spending some time in sunny Italy he returns with one of Italy's prima donnas as well as I hear he should be in business for he certainly made good contract's with all his clients.

THE musical education of the world is looking up, to put it crudely. What with folk songs and musical scores being interpolated in the talkies there is every reason to believe that within another five years the Americans will have the same appreciation of music as the Germans, the Italians and other nations.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has just signed for the next season Efrem Zimbalist Jr. son of Mme. Alma Gluck. Efrem Zachmaninoff will play in "Woman of Women." I am afraid their plans for Efrem can, for some why cannot see Rachmaninoff making a movie. I may be wrong if they can mean many things when Certainly, there is a role in "Woman of Women" he could fill beautifully. Like father, like son, and composer, and not be the least out of character.

PATRICK KEARNEY, who did such a good job adapting "An American Tragedy" as a stage play has brought his young wife and baby to Hollywood. He is here to write dialogue for Famous Players-Lasky. It goes without of course his first assignment would be a stage play, maybe "An American Tragedy" but you can never tell the workings of a studio. He has been invited to write the dialogue for Ronald Colman's next picture. George Bancroft's next picture.

Apparently all is honey and roses between Bancroft and Paramount with their difficulties buried for now they are giving him what he wants in the line of stories and letting him have his way That is all any actor can ask or expect.

THE Wampas boys, composed of Hollywood's press agents, are good sports. They are willing to laugh at a wisecrack at their own expense. Arthur Caesar, guest of honor at their meeting, was given one nifty after another, sparing no one. His analysis of a press agent's methods as the midst of a cackling when a hen lays an egg. Edge Resolution, Now Before Congress, Brings Down to Date the Nicaraguan Canal Data.

Both houses of Congress should take time before adjournment to adopt the Edge resolution authorizing our army engineers to correct and complete the survey of the Nicaraguan Canal which our Government made years ago.

According to the poll of the two houses recently taken by Universal Service, sixty-three Senators favor this resolution and only nine are opposed to it. The same poll shows two hundred and eighty-two Representatives in favor and only twenty-nine opposed to this fact-finding resolution.

Against this overwhelming majority in both houses, reinforced as it is by the support of the President and the President-elect, no one-man filibuster staged by Senator Dill of the State of Washington, or anybody else, should be allowed to prevail.

Not only are there votes enough to adopt the Edge resolution, but there are votes enough to break the Dill filibuster.

All that is needed to adopt the Edge resolution and to send it to the President for approval is the Republican leadership in both houses to give that measure the right of way.

Surely the American people who have paid $3,000,000 for a canal route through Nicaragua are entitled to have the twenty-seven-year-old survey of that route brought down to date.

This canal would directly benefit the three great regions of our country—the Atlantic States, the Pacific States, the Mississippi River and Gulf States.

"It is not an enterprise, therefore," as William Randolph Hearst pointed out in his telegram to Congressman Black, of New York, who read it into the Congressional Record, "which can be opposed because of special benefits conferred merely upon one section. It will prove of advantage to all sections and should have the support of the representatives of all sections.

It is also an enterprise that would have a stabilising effect on the five republics of Central America. Not only Nicaragua but her neighbors would benefit immediately by the commencement of the construction of this canal.

And that immediate benefit Central America would share especially with the Mississippi River and Gulf States, whence would come most of the supplies and much of the building materials for this vast undertaking.

But regardless of when this canal begins, the survey should be completed now, because it will take a considerable time to build the new canal, and the annual reports of the Panama Canal Commission indicate that if the business of that waterway continues to increase as it has during recent years, its capacity will be taxed to its maximum within the next ten or fifteen years.

No new commission would be created by the adoption of the Edge resolution. That resolution delegates to the chief of the army engineers the authority to carry out the whole work of bringing the old survey down to date.

An overwhelming public sentiment—a decisive majority of Senators and Representatives in Congress, the President, the President-elect, the secretaries of State, War and Navy, and the director of the budget favor the adoption at the present session of the Edge resolution.

Under these circumstances the Republican leadership of both Houses of Congress will be guilty of a grave dereliction of duty to the Nation if the Edge resolution is not brought to a vote before adjournment.

Bringing the Nicaraguan Canal survey down to date is too vital to our commerce, to the common defense, to the progress and prosperity of Central America, and to the welfare of the world to be postponed any longer.

The Smart Sex

Centuries of Feminine Intelligence Have Gone Into This Insidious Movement

Dr. F. A. Moss, professor of psychology at George Washington University, reports that women are a shade more intelligent than men. It required several years study and many tests for Dr. Moss to find that out.

Women have virtually reversed the laws of nature to attain social supremacy. Among all species of the animal kingdom, except mankind, the male is the more beautiful, more ornamented, and the female is usually a quiet little domestic body, glad to be alive. The male is the admired and pursued and all the joy of life is his. He is the boss of the family.

Among humans the opposite is the rule. Man works for woman, supports her in comfort, gratifies most of her desires—or soon wishes he does. Painters, sculptors, theatrical producers add professional and artistic approval to the feminine dominance.

This state of affairs did not come about spontaneously. Centuries of feminine intelligence went into the insidious movement. Dr. Moss gives the women the decision by a shade. As a matter of fact, they win by a mile—and in a walk!

When Is a Gambler?

In these days of wild bull markets, speculation is so common that some persons are misunderstanding the meaning of the term. Ivy Lee, purveyor of publicity, comments on the late James A. Patten:

"He was a terrific plunger . . . He was distinctly a speculator as contrasted with the gambler. He thoroughly studied market conditions and what he did was on the basis of careful calculation, often contrary to the advice of his most intimate friends."

What is the difference between a speculator and a gambler? To study conditions thoroughly and act on the basis of careful calculation, often contrary to the advice of friends? What is the way most people bet at the race tracks, studying "dope sheets," track conditions, the records of the jockeys and the length of the race. But they are not speculators nor do they profess to be.

The late Richard Canfield studied human nature, financed games of chance and always saw to it that the percentage was in favor of himself. He also was a gambler.

We must confess that it is impossible for us to see a distinction much less a difference between the two words, unless it is that a speculator is a gambler who wins and a gambler is a speculator who loses.

A Biochemical Entity

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

BIOCHEMIC entity is the name by which Professor Harry Elmer Barnes, of Smith College, designates the race of man. It is more elaborate, but not more respectful, than the old term "biped." Neither of them is anything but a short description of a physical being. The soul is left out of both.

But there is this difference: The word biped is currently used without any implication concerning the spiritual quality of man, while Prof. Barnes employes his term in disparagement of that quality and to help his argument for "the necessity of adopting a secular outlook in our search for knowledge and human improvement."

Prof. Barnes uses the word "secular" in its leading significance as given by the dictionary, i.e., "pertaining to this world or the present life as opposed to eternity and the life to come." He doesn't think that either religion or God is essential to human happiness, but, if we must have them, let them be reformed on scientific lines, and particularly in accord with "the contemporary astro-physical view" and that of "mental hygiene."

"Mental hygiene" appears to be a phrase based on the Freudian philosophy. But while he is, quite properly, enormously impressed by the great theories and researches of astrophysics, the astrophysical astronomers must themselves be somewhat puzzled to guess what Prof. Barnes' ideas about the meaning of their science are when he links it up with mental hygiene in a quixotic war on God and on the windmills of "orthodox" religion.

"In the old days," says Prof. Barnes, "theology was logically the 'queen of the sciences' because the chief interest was in salvation; today mental hygiene may be viewed as the new 'queen of the sciences' because our present problem is that of ever better social adjustment in our ways of living here upon earth."

Note that Dr. Barnes is "professor of sociology." The occupant of a specialized college chair may be allowed to entertain notions of his own about the proper occupant of the throne of "the queen of the sciences."

But what about this bugbear "orthodox religion"? Prof. Barnes pictures the scientific reformer of God and religion marching under the double-headed banner of astrophysics and mental hygiene as exalted in his duty by "that appreciation that human misery and suffering are being increased and perpetuated by orthodox religion and the belief of the scientist that he can reduce this suffering and increase human well-being."

Blinded, perhaps, by the excesses of the fundamentalists, Professor Barnes seems actually to believe that modern Christianity, as practised by millions of intelligent, educated, healthy and happy people throughout the world, is a monster of superstition, producing misery and suffering, and he talks of "the widespread contraction of mental and nervous diseases which are a product of this same unscientific conception of desirable human behavior." He declares that he "sincerely believes orthodox religion to be the foremost existing obstacle to human happiness and well-being!"

There are vast numbers of men and women in this country who sincerely endeavor to guide their lives by the essential teachings of the Christian religion as they are presented in thousands of churches today. They include enlightened leaders of the people in every walk of life.

They are neither ignorant nor superstitious nor hypercritical. Thousands of them are at least equal in intellectual power and in life experience to any college professor occupying any chair whatever. They include judges, lawyers, merchants, writers, philanthropists, leaders and founders of great industries, governors, officials of every rank.

In short, they are types of the highest development that the "biochemical entity" has yet attained on the earth, and they very properly resent the implication that they are miserable victims of the basest ignorance and superstition, desperately needing the "human" attentions of inventors of religio-scientific formulas.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Every man has a rainy corner of his life out of which foul weather proceeds and follows after him. —Richter.

There is merit without elevation, but there is no elevation without some merit. —La Rochefoucauld.

A good intention clothes itself with sudden power. —Emerson.

The first great work (a task performed by few) Is that yourself may to yourself be true —Dillon.

Dress, does not give knowledge. —Yriarte.

You can scarcely answer a prophet; you can only disbelieve him. —Bergen.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE older I grow the less use I have for caution.

As a philosophy for white mice it's probably 100 per cent, but if you aim to hang up a record as a Human it certainly cramps your style.

I admit that foresight may at times be necessary and valuable, but, in the main, if you want to put over something big you've got to cast caution to the winds and MAKE WHOOPEE!

I have never forgotten something Fremont Older once said to me. We had been speaking of the rash things he had done in his turbulent, radical career and the good that had somehow come out of it all. Suddenly he said, with a great grin—

"I HAVE NEVER LOOKED BEFORE I LEAPED!"

As a leaper, Fremont Older has had few equals and some of his leaps have yanked the spiritual standards of America along with him. But I am sure he never made any standing jumps—any cool, considered advances. Always I am sure he went at things with a rush—full steam ahead—red hot with an uproarious disregard for consequences.

"But didn't he get into a lot of trouble?"

Of course he did.

He lost a lot of money rocketing about like that, and many a job—

He was laughed at and hated and reviled—

He was at one time actually kidnaped and scheduled for death—

And he must often have awakened the next morning feeling like thirty cents—

But he went right on leaping before he looked—

HE WENT RIGHT ON MAKING WHOOPEE!

And all America is the richer for it.

If you want to get the real kick out of life—MAKE WHOOPEE!

Go at it red hot, like a man.

Any snail can ooze along, feeling its way, slipping around obstacles, avoiding pitfalls, being safe. And for a snail, safety is success.

But man must have more than safety if life is to pay. He must somehow feel a touch of the divine fire—

HE MUST FLAME!

And you'll never flame if you hang back thinking of the high cost of blisters.

We call fanatics and genuises nuts—

We grow impatient with their excited yammering—

But they really have found the secret of life—

They do not live in a fat, cautious contentment. They tear a vast uproar and see a great light and shake with a mighty tide.

Their bodies may live in poverty and pain and ignominy, BUT THEIR SOULS ARE FREE.

They take their chances as recklessly as Christ took His cross—as Socrates took his hemlock—as Joan took her stake. And because they are quite willing to lose their lives, they find them.

If you want to get anything worth while out of this business of life, that's the way to do it.

Laugh—Flame! Leap before you look!

MAKE WHOOPEE!

Day by Day Abroad

By O.O. McINTYRE

PARIS, Feb. 14—The streets of Paris are a poem of tone. The sad, the gay, the ancient and the modern supply melodies to the symphonic whole. At dawn there was a thin piping voice that might have come from the quiet green hills of Provence instead of the gray cobblestoned plaza of Place Vendome.

And through a balcony window one saw a goatherd with a dozen black and white goats rounding into run den Petit Champs. Even along the Seine whose banks are enveloped in almost perpetual hush, one often hears a fisherman break into song in exultation over an infrequent catch. He seems a little mitty and maybe is.

On the river barges, bargemen and their families add to the hum with their harsh cries, bright-red by the babel of children and barking of dogs. In the student quarters one hears snatches of bright song, together with the agonizing squeak of disreputable fiddles of sidewalk beggars.

In the open markets to which every thrifty housewife, rich or poor, makes her way daily is another strident roar. Here voices raucous from long screaming above their neighbors proclaim the superiority of their wares. Every street echoes the jangle of belled horses and the horn-blowing of the mongers.

To those whose ears are musically inclined there is nothing quite like that delightful section of Ile de la Cite where Notre Dame lifts its majestic Gothic towers on a quiet Sabbath morning. The huge bells, intoning a summons, may be heard in all the outskirts of Paris.

And as their notes die away on the still air, they will be taken up by hundreds of tiny throats across the way, for the shadow of the church is the famed bird market of Notre Dame. For a half-dozen blocks the sidewalks are filled with cages of every variety of bird.

It seems fitting it should be on Sundays this bird market is held so the shrill songs from many-colored warblers should add to the sabbatical paean of praise. And at night when the Grande Boulevards cascade their merry crosscurrents of life, the chatter and laughter attain a strange and deafening crescendo. Paree! Paree!

FOR the ladies: Hats are being worn off the forehead. The face-concealing bonnet so long a boon to irregular profiles is passe. And the prevailing combination for the spring ensemble is pink and black.

PARIS is standardizing a walking stick that seemed nothing more than a gee-gaw of the moment. The handle is of opaque glass which has in it a little electric bulb lighting to pressure. It is used to confound taxi brigands who have their meters unlighted after dark and demand ridiculous fares. Many stay-outs have been able to save the price of a cane in a few weeks.

THE Paris department store is like one of those mystic mirrored affairs at Coney Island. They are easy to enter, but try to get out! The aisles wind and twist, shoot forward and backfire and one may become as hopelessly lost as in a jungle. The waste of time for an ordinary purchase would give an efficiency expert the camp meeting jerks. Around the doors are grouped the floorwalkers, with boots rivaling the left Smith brother, wearing frock coats, celluloid collars and white bow-pull puff ties. One of them leads you to the desired department, turns you over to a clerk, who, after the sale, escorts you—usually via Madrid—to the cashier's cage. Here your purchase is gruvelly recorded in a ponderous ledger in ink. Then you are put in charge of another guide who pilots you and your purchase to the wrapping desk where it is done up in a package with a cute little finger loop. After this it is usually time to hurry home, put out the cat, sprinkle the geraniums and have a gentleman with long whiskers turn down your bed.

IN one department store my pilot dog trotting after me kept shouting "Regarde!" Finally, exasperated, I turned, tempted to shout back: "My regards to you, too! And also to your Aunt Ida!" Then I saw I had somehow stepped into a gadget that looked like the fly net for a horse, and was dragging it along.

AND I must tell you about the nobby motor car I saw in a window in the Champs Elysee. It was made for a famous he-dressmaker. It is long, slim and trim. The outdoor front seat is for the chauffeur and footman. The rear seat is made only for two and t is completely of a delicate shade of pink, even to the tires. Something's wrong. It doesn't sound as interesting as it looked.

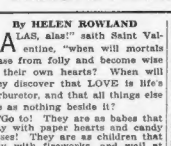
MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

By HELEN ROWLAND

"ALAS, alas!" saith Saint Valentine, "when will mortals cease from folly and become wise to their own hearts? When will they discover that LOVE is life's carburetor, and that all things else are as nothing beside it?

"Go to! They are as babes that play with paper hearts and candy kisses! They are as children that play with fireworks, and wail at burned fingers.



"Lo, how cheerfully will a woman cast aside love for a string of pearls and an imported car, for a gilt coronet and a little limelight! Alas, how many a damsel hath renounced love for the sake of wearing an Eastern mink coat instead of a Japanese mink coat. Even for a slight difference in the location of a little animal!

"Yea, how many a youth hath blithely exchanged love for a few tawdry adventures, which bored him to death after the third kiss, and called it 'freedom'!

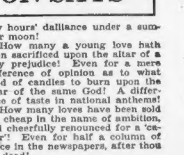
"How many a perfect and beautiful love hath been risked and lost for a passing sex attraction and a few hours' dalliance under a summer moon!

"How many a young love hath been sacrificed upon the altar of a silly prejudice! Even for a mere difference of opinion as to what kind of candles to burn upon the altar of the same God! A difference of taste in national anthems!

"How many loves have been sold out cheap in the name of ambition, and cheerfully renounced for a 'career'! Even for half a column of space in the newspapers, after thou art dead!

"Go to, ye foolish mortals! When will ye learn that naught in all the world bringeth joy unless LOVE cometh in the name package?

"When will ye discover that of all tragedies, that is none so great as to go through life WITHOUT love?



"When will ye perceive that Love is worth ANY price which thou shalt pay for it? And that he who SELLETH love, for whatsoever price, cheateth himself?

"Alas, alas!" said Saint Valentine, "when will mortals become wise to their own hearts? When will they discover that Love is life's carburetor, without which all else is just junk?"
